County Will Quit Paying Emergency Bills At Hospitals

By RANDALL GOULD

Marin County supervisors today unanimously decided to quit paying emergency hospital bills for people able to pay themselves.

Their decision came only after initial protest by Chairman William D. Fusselman that this was an old story, he had long been unable to get a definition of "indigent" from anybody, the board hasn't been remiss, and press criticism was unjustified so "I fail to see any reason for the tremendous disturbance."

Information came in a hurry.

County Medical Director Michael E. Scholl, who last week complained to the board that the county was picking up emergency hospital tabs for many with jobs and insurance, found no mystery about defining indigency.

He said it just meant a person "in need of medical care but who can't get it without depriving himself or his family of the necessities of life."

Scholl said the medical director would make a determination of county responsibility in each case, based on information which the hospital would write up in examining the patient at the time of treatment.

Such investigation is the rule now on other medical care, said Scholl, "but the big gap is in emergency cases." He said the hospitals have been consulted and "agree their bad debts should not be sent to us."

Scholl expressed the view that there will be less work to be done by county personnel if the change is made.

Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said clarifying the situation would "guide both my office and the medical department." He said his office is holding up bills totaling approximately $2,000, mostly from Marin General Hospital and some from San Rafael General Hospital.

In case of any disagreement, Scholl explained, a medical review board will make decision and send its recommendation to the supervisors for a final verdict.

Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker asked what criteria would be used in determining financial responsibility. Scholl said determination of medical needs, residence in state and county, and financial capability would all be made for overall decision.

Matters were brought to decision by Supervisor Peter Behr. He said it was clear that an amendment of current policy is required, and moved adoption of Scholl's recommendations as the new policy. Supervisor William A. Gnoss seconded and there was no dissent.

West Shows Interest In Inspections

Way To Prevent Surprise Attack, Ease Tensions

MOSCOW (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk was reported by diplomatic sources to have told the Soviet Union today that the United States may be interested in a Russian plan to prevent surprise attacks by placing inspectors in strategic areas in both East and West.

Rusk, cautiously exploring new ways to east cold war tensions in the wake of yesterday's signing of a partial nuclear test ban treaty, met twice during the day with British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

TAKES INITIATIVE

Rusk was reported to have taken the initiative at today's meetings to ask Gromyko to explain the surprise attack plan in greater detail.

The surprise attack defense proposal first was made by the Russians in 1958 . It was revived by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in a major Kremlin speech last July 19. It was one of a series of moves he called for—including a nonaggression pact between the Western NATO alliance and the Communist Warsaw Pact—to ease world tensions.

AT DEPOTS

Khrushchev suggested July 19 that the inspectors be stationed at such strategic installations as harbors, rail depots and airfields to keep tabs on troop movements that might be connected with a sudden attack by either side.

Rusk, Home and Groyko were

Rusk, Home and Gromyko were reported to have discussed such questions as the distribution of th inspectors at today's sessions.

The diplomatic sources said the Soviet side apparently placed major emphasis on observers in both East and West Germany.

JUST EXPLORING

The sources emphasized, however, that the Moscow meetings were purely exploratory. If they show there is a real possibility for further East-West agreements, the sources said, they may be followed by a summit meeting between President John F. Kennedy, Khrushchev and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Informed diplomatic circles here have speculated that such a meeting might take place during the United Nations General Assembly meeting in New York this fall.

MERCEDES DOUGLAS
Wedding plans

Former Wife Of Douglas Weds Today

BEVERLY HILLS (AP)—Mercedes Douglas plans to marry today—the day after her former husband, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, married a girl 41 years his junior.

Mrs. Douglas divorced him six days ago.

Yesterday—as her husband's marriage to a 23-year-old government girl was making headlines—Mercedes Douglas came up with some news of her own:

At 6 p.m. today, at the home of a friend, she would marry Robert B. Eichholz, 52, a Washington attorney.

Mrs. Douglas is 46.

Their sudden marriage plans came as a surprise to many—as did the marriage of the towering, white-thatched justice to a secretary whom he first met when she was a college coed.

The former Joan Carol Martin and Douglas were united in a church ceremony at Buffalo, N. Y.

2 New Banks Get Approval For Branches

San Rafael's two new home-owned banks today both received permission for branches.

Bank of Marin, which opened for business last Nov. 9, received permission from the state superintendent of banks to place a branch in Petaluma.

Redwood National Bank, which opened last Jan. 5, received permission from the federal comptroller of currency for a branch in Napa.

W. P. Murray Jr., president of the Bank of Marin, said the Petaluma branch will be opened as soon as possible. Announcement of a location and of a manager for the branch will be made very shortly, he said.

Murray opened the Petaluma branch of the former First National Bank of San Rafael in 1955 and was its manager. It was headquarters of First National's farm department, which served the dairy industry in West Marin and Sonoma County.

Byron W. Leydecker, president of Redwood National Bank, announced the Napa branch will occupy 14,000 square feet at Second and School streets, and will be open within six months.

"Redwood in Napa will answer a need—a need caused by the lack of an independent bank concerned with guaranteeing personal service for every banking need," Leydecker declared.

"Some of Napa's most prominent citizens will be intimately involved in the organization of the Napa office."

Marin Utility Assessment: $31 Million

The State Board of Equalization has assessed Marin's utility company properties at $31,058,000, leaving the county's preliminary 1963-64 budget short approximately $40,000.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell had estimated the utilities' assessed value at $31,900,000, or nearly two million dollars higher than last year's figure of $30,188,000. The difference between his estimate and the state's amounts to $1,712,000 assessed value, or taxes of approximately $40,000.

The state assessment figure for Marin utilities represents a boost of 2.9 per cent over last year.

The percentage of increase compares with 19 per cent for San Luis Obispo County, which got a new electric power plant at Morro Bay, and 7 per cent for Alpine County. Modoc and Amador counties lost 2 per cent of their utilities assessments. The 199 utilities companies in the state have two weeks in which to protest their assessments.

The county has estimated Marin's other taxable lands at an assessed value of $302,077,000, up 14 per cent from last year. The utilities assessment, plus the county's estimate of other taxable property in the county, amounts to $333,135,000, a boost of 38 million dollars from last year's figure of $297,927,245.

$100,000 Price For Informant

WASHINGTON (AP)—The underworld has set a price of $100,000 on the head of Joseph Valachi, the informant who gave officials their best information on the structure of the syndicate which dominates the crime picture in the United States, government sources said today.

"We're going to keep him alive," one source said. "We don't know exactly what we are going to do with him, but we're going to keep him in a safe place."

HOPE IN TEST BAN

People Of Hiroshima Mark Anniversary Of Atom Bomb

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—The people of Hiroshima paused today to mourn the victims of history's first atom bomb attack, made on their city 18 years ago today. But they took heart from the signing of the partial nuclear test ban treaty in Moscow.

At 8:15 a.m.—the exact time that the American B-29 "Enola Gay" dropped the bomb on Aug. 6, 1945 — a swarm of doves wheeled into the air and the Hiroshima peace bell began its sorrowful toll.

A crowd of 15,000 stood with bowed heads for a minute of silence before the simple, arched memorial to the city's atomic dead.

Mayor Shinzo Hamai, dressed in black, referred to the Moscow treaty in his memorial address, expressing "great gratification that at long last a pact for the partial banning of nuclear weapons has been concluded by the United States, the United Kingdom and the Soviet Union."

The memorial ceremony was brief and restrained, in marked contrast to the confusion and political bickering which broke up the opening last night of the Communist-dominated ninth world conference against hydrogen and atom bombs.

Delegates from Red China, Soviet Russia and many other countries were present at the commemoration today, but they were relegated to the background.

The conference split over whether to denounce nuclear testing by the Western powers only, as Red Chinese and the Japanese Communists demanded, or testing by all nations, as the Russians and the Japanese Socialists proposed.

Japanese Socialists and labor unionists walked out of the opening ceremony, resigned from the conference and prepared to stage a conference of their own. The Soviet delegation, the Indians and others turned their backs last night on a Chinese delegates who was condemning the nuclear test ban treaty.

Conference meetings scheduled for today were postponed.

'Cosmos 19' Is Launched By Russians

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today launched a new "Cosmos" satellite on a mission to obtain research information for future manned space flights.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said the unmanned satellite, "Cosmos 19," went into orbit after a routine launching.

"The apparatus on board the sputnik are functioning normally and the coordinating-computing center is now processing the information it is receiving," the Tass announcement said.

The satellite, 19th in the "Cosmos" program, was lofted into orbit on the second anniversary of the 17-orbit flight of Soviet Cosmonaut Gherman Titov.

The stated purpose of the program, which was announced by Premier Nikita Khrushchev in an election speech March 16, 1962, is to study such space phenomena as radiation and the earth's magnetic fields to

Traps Set For Korean Reds—None Show Up

WITH U.S. FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION, Korea (AP)—A heavy American force set up ambush positions in the demilitarized zone last night and withdrew at dawn today without contacting any Communist North Korean troops.

The combat-ready Americans went into position at dusk yesterday. They set up three traps for Communist patrols that have been striking into United Nations territory and on occasions launching strong attacks on U.S. units.

The exact number of American troops involved was classified. But the U.S. force is known to have been larger than the small patrols that normally guard the U.S. sector of the 151mile truce line established after the Korean War.

It is obvious that the U.S. command is determined to stop all North Korean movement—by large Red forces or small units—into what the 1953 armistice agreement termed U. N. territory.

Orders were given that the American force hold its fire until Communist troops moved in close.

Armored personnel carriers moved to within a few thousand yards of the demilitarized zone and stood by in the event a fight developed.

The scene was about 13 miles east of Panmunjom.

Burglars Drill Through Ceilings To Get At Safe

Burglars painstakingly used a hand drill to drill through two ceilings and then punch open a safe at Lydon's Marin Orthopedic Co. at 1318 Fourth Street, San Rafael, sometime Sunday night.

They made off, through the front door of the office, with about $295 in cash, according to police.

John Lydon of 698 Tarragon Drive, Terra Linda, who reported the burglary to police, said it occurred between 6:30 p.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. yesterday.

Police today said the burglars used a small hand drill to drill about 20 holes in the roof and the ceiling above the office. Inspector Richard Camper said it was a "neat job."

Treaty Is Due Senate Thursday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy told Democratic congressional leaders today that he expects to send the limited test ban treaty to the Senate about Thursday.

This schedule was relayed to reporters by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield (Mont.) after the president's weekly breakfast session with the Democratic congressional leadership group.

Mansfield said that the president had indicated that the treaty, signed in Moscow yesterday, would be submitted to the Senate about Thursday for its ratification.

Fairfax Fireman Is Overcome By Smoke Inhalation

Douglas Bock, 22, of Apt. 3, 20 Bolinas Avenue, Fairfax, a volunteer with the Fairfax Fire Department, was overcome by smoke inhalation last night while fighting a grass and brush fire east of Oak Manor School.

Bock was treated at Marin General Hospital.

The fire, believed to have been started by children playing with matches, began at 6:42 p.m. It covered 3.5 acres in the first flareup and several hours later broke out again, covering another 1.5 acres.

Units from the Marin County Fire Department assisted on both calls.

Fluctuating Income Tax Break Gaining

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee today gave its final approval to 40 million dollars in special tax relief for professional athletes, actors, authors and others whose incomes fluctuate.

The proposal—recommended by President John F. Kennedy—would enable taxpayers to "average" their taxable income over a five-year period in computing their tax bills.

About 500 Russian soldiers brought 125 bulldozers and other machines to help clear away the rubble from the July 26 earthquake which ruined the once model city and killed an estimated 2,000 persons.

Ford's 'Just A Good Friend'

MILAN, Italy (AP)—A blonde Italian divorcee, linked romantically to Henry Ford II by New York newspapers, says she and the auto tycoon are "just good friends and nothing else."

MRS. AUSTIN

The divorcee, Christina Austin, told newsmen yesterday: "I met Henry Ford and his wife in Paris three years ago and I have seen them from time to time in New York."

Ford, 45, president of the Ford Motor Co., and his wife, Anne, 44, announced their separation over the weekend. They were married 23 years ago.

Mrs. Austin, divorced wife of the late William Austin, a former British naval officer, said she saw newspaper accounts of the separation before leaving New York for her native Milan on Sunday. She said she comes to Milan about every two months to visit her family. Mrs. Austin lives in New York.

Farm Worker Influx Predicted

BERKELEY (AP)—Two University of California economists warn that California faces the largest influx of farm worker families since the dust bowl '30s if the Bracero program ends Dec. 31.

In an article in the Western Fruit Grower, a trade magazine, economists Eric Thor and John Mamer contend the wide publication of the program's end and resultant predictions of farm labor shortages will attract countless farm migrant families to the state. The authors said these families will be the responsibility of the taxpayers and not just agriculture.

Luxury Yacht Inquiry Ends

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—An informal inquiry into the sinking of the $250,000 luxury yacht Freedom II ended yesterday with no further investigation expected, but with the true cause still unknown.

Cmdr. J. H. Hawley said: "One of the bottom planks must have carried away," he said. "This is the only thing that could account for the tremendous influx of water. But we'll never know for certain because in all probability the vessel sank at sea."

Burton Sees Liz As Lady Macbeth

CHICAGO (UPI) — Actor Richard Burton says he would like to cast Elizabeth Taylor as Lady Macbeth in the film version of "Macbeth" he is considering doing.

In an interview in the September issue of Playboy magazine, Burton said "for one thing she speaks poetry rather well and for another, she's very receptive to big, imperious ideas."

Burton said it was "absolute nonsense" that Miss Taylor is the most beautiful woman in the world.

"She's a pretty girl of course," Burton said, "and she has wonderful eyes; but she has a double chin and an overdeveloped chest and she's rather short in the leg."

Charles A. DeTurk, director of parks and recreation, said the former home of the late William Randolph Hearst, owner of the Hearst newspapers, is getting more visitors than it can handle.

Parts of the sprawling hilltop estate were given to the state in 1958 by the Hearst Corp., and DeTurk said the state is negotiating for more.

Rockefeller Is Answered By Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater called on Republicans today to "stop chewing on each other and start chewing on the Democrats."

That was the Arizona Republican's reply to the action of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller yesterday in sidestepping an Albany news conference question on whether he will back Goldwater for president if the latter becomes the 1964 GOP nominee.

All Rockefeller would say was: "We've got a long way to go." The governor also raised again the issue of whether Goldwater is a "captive of the radical right."

Asked about this in an interview, Goldwater said he is getting tired of Republicans knocking other Republicans. He said that's just what the Democrats want them to do.

"It's time for us Republicans to stop chewing on each other and start chewing on the Democrats," he said. "The Democrats are better fed now that they are in power and they are getting soft. We ought to get our teeth into them."

Asked if he will support Rockefeller if the New York governor becomes the 1964 nominee, Goldwater said "he hasn't even announced that he is available." He added that he wants to wait and see what happens.

"I have a habit of supporting Republican presidential nominees unless they are personally obnoxious to me, and that has not happened in a long time," Goldwater said.

Could Rockefeller be classified as personally obnoxious to him? No, the senator didn't think so.

SERVICE FAMILIES TURN TO CHARITY

Survey Shows Military Incomes Not Enough To Make Ends Meet

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine enlisted men have to turn to charity because they are unable to make ends meet on their service incomes.

An Associated Press survey of the military services and service-affiliated relief organizations indicated today that the relief agencies have paid out millions of dollars to help provide military families with such needs as food and clothing.

Some families accept food surplus packages. Others, particularly those with many children, are able to draw state welfare payments.

Armed forces personnel specialists said many men take jobs in bowling alleys, filling stations, groceries and other private businesses to add to their service pay. Their wives often work.

One Marine welfare officer called it "disgraceful" that senior non-commissioned officers living in the Washington, D.C., araea should have to take off-duty civilian jobs to keep their heads above water.

The armed services said they do not know even approximately how many of their men have been drawing some form of relief.

This is because hard-pressed servicemen often apply to state and local agencies for help and these agencies generally keep such cases confidential.

A hint of the scope comes from the semi-official military relief organizations, which operate on voluntary contributions. These groups were set up because regulations bar the services from using government funds to furnish emergency aid.

Army Emergency Relief gave out $4,178,661 in loans and grants last year. One-third of this went to 2,215 cases to pay for food, rent, and utilities.

The Navy Relief Society distributed $4,056,570 in 1962, about half going to avert want among Navy men, Marines, their wives and children.

The Air Force Aid Society paid out more than $750,000 between December and May. No breakdown was available of the portion devoted to staving off destitution.

The exact number of Navy men and Marines getting some kind of aid is not known, the Navy said.

However, it added, "we do know that some Navy families in New York and New England qualify for public assistance due to the size of the family and their relatively low income."

The Army said standards set by Washington state are such that about 7 per cent of the 25,000 soldiers stationed there qualify for free food because of low income.

The help furnished by service relief societies is generally of a one-shot variety. For long-term help, the services are banking on a 1.2-billion-dollar military pay bill before Congress.

Pentagon leaders headed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara contend the pay situation is damaging morale among the 2.7 million people in the armed forces and driving men with valuable skills out of uniform.

Duvalier Regime Threatened By Exiles' Invasion Of Haiti

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — An invasion by a small force of exiled soldiers on the north coast of neighboring Haiti threatened the terrorist regime of voodoo-preaching dictator Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier today.

Duvalier's government acknowledged the landing and prepared an appeal for intervention by the Organization of American States. Haiti's ambassador to the OAS, Fernd D. Baguidy, charged that the invaders came from the Dominican Republic, which shares the island of Hispaniola with Haiti.

Haitian exile sources in Santo Domingo said at least 500 well armed men trained for guerrilla warfare landed at Fort Liberte at 3 a.m. yesterday and quickly captured the towns of Fort Liberte, Derac, Trou and Limonade.

Their immediate objective was Cap Haitian, Haiti's second largest city, 18 miles west of Fort Liberte.

At nightfall the radio in Cap Haitien was still in government hands, appealing for a united front to halt the invaders.

Reports reaching here said American families were evacuating to Cap Haitien from the U. S.-owned Dauphin plantation on the orders of the Duvalier government. The plantation lies near Fort Liberte, about five miles west of the Dominican border.

A news source in Port au Prince said last night little was known in public there except that a rebel force apparently was fighting the Haitian army in the north. Censors barred correspondents from sending out news by cable.

Port au Prince is 40 miles south of the invasion site.

A new 88-inch cyclotron is now operating at the Berkeley campus of the University of California; scientists say it will permit new nuclear explorations.

Council Rejects Subdivision Plan

San Rafael City Council members looked last night at a map of a proposed 25-lot subdivision in the Southern Heights area and found it wanting.

They turned down, unanimously, the subdivision proposal for San Rafael Woods, at the end of C Street and with connection with Meyer Road to D Street.

The planning commission had approved the subdivision with specifications for extending C Street to provide a connection, and for various other street improvements. But Charles F. Daglow of 10 Meyer Road appealed the commission's decision and won his appeal.

Besides a street pattern which City Engineer Dominic Selmi called "fighting nature," the proposed subdivision was handicapped by the fact that Meyer Road has twice in the past been closed by slides, that Selmi had insisted and the planning commission specified that four of the lots could not be built upon without soil test clearance, by lack of any arrangement for drainage, and by the fact—brought out by Councilman L. H. Bud Baar—that the applicant is not the owner, against whom an $84,000 loan on the property is being foreclosed by a savings and loan company.

Engineer Valmar A. Schaaf, who presented and argued for Seahurst Investment Co., who would develop the land. He said he and architect Edmund C. Heine Jr. have a contract with Seahurst to engineer the project and design the houses. The owner is Morden Dunn.

Schaaf was no match for a succession of residents of the area who spoke against the development. At one point, Daglaw asked how many persons were present to protest. Twenty-five stood up.

The council, in a four-hour session devoted largely to planning matters, upheld the planning commission in granting rezoning to duplex of a lot at 219 Ross Street, owned by Ernest H. Oslar, despite the fact that lots on both sides of it are zoned for single dwellings. Councilman Charles W. Aby, calling it "spot zoning," dissented.

In other planning matters, the city council:

1. Set for hearing Aug. 19 appeal of John Moran of planning commission rejection of a duplex subdivision to be reached via Jewel Court.

2. Accepted the final maps of Porto Bello and East Harbor Estates condominium subdivisions, Northgate Industrial Park, Graceland Park Unit II, and Oakmont Terrace.

3. Set for hearing Aug. 19 Philip Rosenberg's appeal of planning commission denial of a subdivision on Fourth Street between Alexander and Crescent streets.

Deeds To New City Hall Site Are Accepted

The San Rafael City Council last night accepted deeds to the two remaining properties sought for a new city hall site.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen presented deeds to the Dr. Leo L. Stanley and Mrs. Marie Robinson properties, extending from the city library lot to property at Fifth Avenue and C Street purchased earlier from Dr. Frank Howard.

For Dr. Stanley's property, the council authorized payment of $191,500, which will include furniture; for Mrs. Robinson's, $161,500.

Andersen said the purchases should be completed tomorrow. This will put the city in possession of the entire block from G to E Streets and from Fifth to Mission avenues, except for a non-access strip along part of the Mission Avenue frontage held by Louise Boyd. A team of San Rafael architects is at work designing a city hall to be built on the property at cost of about $780,000.

Possibility that the federal government may aid in the building cost was raised by Councilman Fred E. Jensen. He said he had read of federal grants to cities toward city hall construction when the hall can be put to use as a civil defense shelter.

City Manager Dan Anderson said he also had heard of this, and had the necessary application forms to submit with a request for federal aid.

Discussion of sale of the present city hall property was postponed as Andersen said he had not yet received a new appraisal requested by the council.

USE TRANQUILIZERS

Planner Tells How To Keep Dogs Quiet

James R. Garrett, San Rafael city planner, revealed last night how to keep a dog from barking.

You give it a tranquilizer.

At least, according to Garrett, that's what veterinarians M. B. Shenson and W. E. Rushworth do.

Drs. Shenson and Rushworth, who operate the Terra Linda Veterinary Hospital at 4230 Redwood Highway, want to locate an "animal out-patient clinic" in the Montecito Shopping Center. The San Rafael Planning Commission last month turned them down.

Garrett said that, since the turndown, he had visited the Terra Linda Veterinary Hospital and found it very clean and very quiet.

"I was told that if an animal is noisy, they tranquilize it," he said.

Not tranquilized was the woman proprietor of a dress shop in the Montecito Center, next door to where the "animal out-patient clinic" is proposed. She objected.

Not tranqualized, either, was the city council, which put over the hearing until Aug. 19 to give other Montecito merchants a chance to be heard, too.

Special Session For Hub Planners

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will have a special session today at 8 p.m. at city council chambers on two controversial zoning matters.

Commissioners will hold a public hearing on a petition from the San Anselmo Homes Assn. to rezone land at the end of Sonoma Avenue, behind San Anselmo Memorial Park, from apartments to single family dwellings.

Commissioners also will consider the final map of the Indian Rock subdivision, part of the Short Ranch proposed for development.

Bret Harte District Cost Paid

The San Rafael City Council last night authorized paying a $5,000 bill for a drainage district that went down the drain.

The bill was from Edwin Ness of the legal firm of Sturgis, DenDulk, Douglas and Anderson, for legal services in settling up the million-dollar Bret Harte Drainage Assessment District. The district was abandoned when owners of over 90 per cent of the property protested the assessments.

Still to be received is the bill of Daniel P. Coleman and Associates, who did the engineering.

$106-Million Budget Measure Is Signed

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California's 1963-64 budget has gotten a 106-million-dollar boost with the signing of the special legislative session's budget augmentation bill by Acting Gov. Glenn M. Anderson.

The supplemental bill, requested by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, raises the 3.14-billion-dollar skeleton budget passed by the general session to 3.27 billion dollars, and assures a number of new and increased programs.

Anderson, acting chief executive while Brown is in Europe, announced he had signed the measure late yesterday. He called the augmented budget "an excellent one" that will allow the state to "meet urgent needs in the face of great growth."

The biggest item in the supplemental program is 58.47 million dollars for a 5 to 10 per cent pay raise for about 80 per cent of the state's 120,000 employees, including those of the University of California and state colleges.

The raise will take effect next Jan. 1.

Shortly after the bill received final legislative approval Brown termed it "eminently satisfactory," although it did not give him everything he wanted.

Broemmel Says Downtown Area Due Reappraisal In '64

Downtown San Rafael property was reappraised in 1960-61—a year ahead of the rest of the city, County Assessor Bert W. Brommel informed the San Rafael City Council by letter last night.

Since then, it has not been re-examined, but it will be next year, he wrote.

Broemmel wrote the council in response to questions raised at its July 15 meeting as result of an Independent-Journal story disclosing downtown San Rafael had not shared in the general valuation increase of Marin County properties in the past three years.

The area referred to in the newspaper story, wrote Broemmel, was that running from D Street east to the railroad, with Fourth Street as the approximate center line.

"The impressions we obtained from our 1961 survey of this Fourth Street area led us to conclude at that time that existing values there were at a ceiling above which ventures could not operate properly," he wrote.

However, he declared further, residential property does not bear an undue share of the tax burden in San Rafael. The per cent born by residential property in San Rafael is 55.1, he reported, compared with 67 per cent in Larkspur-Corte Madera, 80.5 per cent in San Anselmo, and 89.2 per cent in Ross.

The council filed his letter without comment.

Novato Budget Hearing Set For 8 Tonight

A public hearing on the $525,205 Novato city budget for 1963-64 will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the community house by the Novato City Council.

The council has held one public hearing and eight study sessions prior to the final public hearing and adoption of the budget.

The chamber of commerce will ask the council for a $6,000 appropriation. The junior chamber of commerce will ask for $750 for western weekend celebration next year.

City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. will report on the Simmons Lane wrecking yard which the city ordered abated as a nuisance, and City Administrator J. Julien Baget will report on a letter from the Marin County Board of Supervisors on the county road tax.

The median number of years of school completed by persons 25 years old and over in the United States was 10.6 years in 1960, compared with 9.3 years in 1950 and 8.6 years in 1940.

'Cannery Row' Ghost Is Laid Back To Rest

The ghost of the old "Cannery Row" dispute was briefly raised last night at the Belvedere City Council and quickly laid back to rest.

Raymond R. Menzel, first homeowner in Westshore development unit 2, requested permission to build a sixfoot fence through a 15-foot city-owned setback in front of his house.

He supported his plea with photographs and a map of the landscaping he was contemplating, and cited that such a fense was permitted in unit No. 1. He argued he wanted privacy and said the fence would not interfere with the water view for passersby.

On recommendation of the planning commission, the counsil denied a permit for the fence.

Said Mayor Robert P. Watkins: "This body has worked long hours and engaged in long and bitter fights over this matter. The restrictions were the result of compromise. They are for the benefit of all. The waterfront should be an asset to all."

"You are forgetting the person who lives on the land," Menzel said. He predicted the rest of the residents would be unhappy too.

City Atty. William H. MacKay explained that the restrictions were part of a private contract and the council could not legally give relief.

The dispute was prominently in the news two years ago when the Belvedere Land Co. sought to build homes in stilts on the west shore inundated land. After months of harangue and repeated rejections by the city council, the developers changed the plans to a fill operation. Because of outraged protests of island residents who look down on the area, it became known as "Cannery Row."

A petition signed by 50 persons requesting removal of a recently installed stop signal at Golden Gate and Oak Avenues was submitted to the council. Close on its heels came a second petition signed by 26 persons thanking the council for installing the sign. The council took no action so the sign will remain.

On recommendation of City Mgr. Britton Rey, the council will study a change in the ordinance requiring residents to tie into a sewer line if their property line in within 300 feet of the line. The ordinance now specifies 200 feet from the house. Rey said that homes on the lower side of Belvedere Avenue have septic tanks and completion of the westshore sewer line will make a line available to them.

The Belvedere City Council also:

1. Voted to replace six street lights and install six more along San Rafael Avenue and Beach Road at a monthly cost of $725.20.

2. Reviewed a uniform animal ordinance for study and discussion at the September meeting. Rey termed the ordinance, which had been approved by the Humane Society, as one of the best of its type.

Three New Tiburon Businesses Approved

Three new business enterprises in Tiburon—a pizza restaurant, ice cream parlor and "English Inn"—were approved yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The inn, to include a bar and restaurant, is to be on Juanita Lane, opposite the Racoon Straits maritime center. The ice cream parlor is planned on Tiburon Boulevard next to the Tiburon fire station. Both are on land owned by Fred G. Zelinsky.

Senior planner Edmund Kagi said the inn would be built on land already set aside for downtown parking spaces for other Zelinsky projects.

George Banning, Belvedere Planning Commission chairman, told the county commission that parking along the Belvedere city line was a "serious problem" which would soon result in "streets choked with traffic."

The commission approved the new projects on condition that 113 parking spaces scattered over Zelinsky properties be established as permanent ent parking areas.

Permission to convert a building at 33 Main Street in to a pizza parlor was granted Andrew Di Scala, although Zelinsky objected in a letter to the commission that the restaurant would "attract too many juveniles."

Burglars Have Wide Range Of Tastes In Sausalito

Burglars' tastes in Sausalito run a broad gamut—from tuxedos and vests to Machiavelli and women's undies.

In one of three burglaries reported to police last night, Norman de Chaurom of 212 Cazneau Avenue reported someone stole his wife's slip, two pair of underpants and a brassiere from a dresser top but did not disturb jewelry on the dresser. The thief also took two paperback books, one on Machiavelli and one on Montrose, from a bookcase, he said. He estimated total loss at $10.

Upstairs in the same 212 Cazneau Avenue duplex, the burglar took jewelry from the apartment of Nicholas Newbeck—about $350 worth of it, Newbeck reported. Also stolen there was about $7 in coins.

C. M. Peterson reported that someone entered his home at 4 Bulkley Avenue sometime between 3:45 and 4:15 p.m. Sunday, apparently through an unlocked bathroom window.

Taken from a closet between the bath and bedroom; Peterson said, were a tuxedo, suit, two sport coats, three pair of slacks, two sweaters and two vests. Total value was estimated at $1,000 by Peterson.

Girl's Right To See Cuba Is Defended

Roger Esteeves of San Anselmo has defended his daughter's right to see Cuba despite a presidential order barring travel there.

He and parents of six other students among the 60 defying the governmental ban on travel in Castro's regime plan a "big welcome home" for the students when they return in approximately three weeks.

Regulations against travel by U.S. citizens to the island infringe "the civil right of American citizens to travel," the parents said at a news conference in San Francisco yesterday.

Esteves, asked if he thought his daughter, Caryl, saw all there was to see in Cuba, replied: "I don't think any of the students were shown the slummy side of life, but they are adults and able to decide this for themselves.

Miss Esteves is a 20-year-old student at San Francisco State College.

The State Department has said it will take away the students' passports when they return.

"If we can enlist public opinion in getting these oppressive regulations on travel repealed, our children will indeed have traveled in a good cause," said Harry Flemming, chairman of the San Francisco Bay Area Parents Committee for Student Cuban Travelers.

Watered Down Whisky Stolen

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Even being a burglary victim sometimes has its laughs.

Take the case of the guy who broke into Joe Barzizza's liquor store, looted the cash register and grabbed a bottle out of a window display.

All that real whisky on the shelves, and he had to go and steal a dummy fifth—full of bourbon-colored water.

What Happens When Cigarette Is Tossed

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Leonard McCallum flicked a cigarette butt from the window of his car as he drove along here. The wind caught the cigarette and whisked it up his sleeve.

Planners Approve School Proposal

Use of a former residence in Santa Venetia as a school for mentally retarded children was approved by Marin County planning commissioners yesterday despite protests of neighbors.

The commission unanimously approved a use permit requested by the county superintendent of schools to establish mentally retarded classes at 29 Washington Street in Santa Venetia. Renewals for use permits for existing mentally retarded classrooms were also unanimously approved at 27 Meadow Drive, Alto, and 71 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia.

"The fact that there are few protests this year for those schools already established seems to indicate general acceptance," said Chairman Niels Schultz Jr.

Shortly after approval of the new school on Washington Street, however, a delegation of homeowners appeared to protest it as "unfitting for a residential area." The commission refused to reconsider the application and informed the protestants the matter would be heard heard next Tuesday at 2 p.m. by the board of supervisors.

"We're not against the children," said Joseph J. Burton, leader of the group which called itself the Golf Links Tract Property Owners Committee. "But people in the area have a poor understanding of what is proposed. The site is poorly suited for a school."

He presented the commission with a protest petition signed by 57 residents.

Daryl F. Hopkins, special education director for the county schools office, said use of homes for the children is a "step along the way . . . our dream is to build a center for these children instead of putting them in scattered classrooms."

County Auditor Michael Mitchell said the board of supervisors "was sold on the idea of such classrooms because no other education is available to these children."

Dante Bagnani, president of Marin Aid to Retarded Children, said mentally retarded children "learn elementary things in the home environment" of such school.

The Marin County Planning Commission Also:

1. Received a protest from 18 members of the Westbrae Homeowners Assn., near Fairfax, against use by Greyhound buses of an area near Oak Manor Drive and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard for an overnight parking lot. They said the use is "unsightly, noisy and a danger to children." Planning director B. D. Dobbs was directed to inquire whether the bus company must obtain permission from the commission for such parking.

2. Continued until Aug. 19 consideration of use permits for an American Baptist Church and Church of the Nativity in Marinwood.

3. Approved a six-lot subdivision of two acres in the San Geronimo Valley at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Meadow Way, requested by S. E. Unger.

4. Set for Aug. 19 public hearing of staff recommendations to rezone south San Rafael-San Quentin area properties from interim zoning.

5. Granted Alice M. Gatterdam permission to keep a house trailer on a 100-acre ranch near the Fallon-Two Rock Road in Northwest Marin.

6. Approved a tentative map for a 64-lot subdivision on 49 acres of the Sanchez ranch at Sutro Avenue and Vineyard Road near Novato. The subdividers, Roberts and Aguirre, agreed to extend a road to the subdivision boundary on the east with the possibility it will later connect with Sutro Avenue, making a through street.

7. Approved tentative map for unit two of Pleasant Valley, also subdivided by Roberts and Aguirre, of 90 lots on 36 acres off an extension of Center Road west of Sutro Avenue near Novato.

8. Approved another tentative subdivision map for Parlee Estates Unit 1, in Oakwood Valley beyond Tennessee Valley Road, provided developer Clifford Parlee presents a detailed planning map.

9. Agreed to divide a one acre area on Emlin Place off Laurel Grove Avenue in Kentfield into five lots since five houses have been on the land for 50 years. Spiliotis and Co plan to tear down the old houses and build new ones.

10. Adjourned until Aug. 19 in memory of the late Supervisor Walter R. Castro.

'Cannery Row' Ghost Is Laid Back To Rest

The ghost of the old "Cannery Row" dispute was briefly raised last night at the Belvedere City Council and quickly laid back to rest.

Raymond R. Menzel, first homeowner in Westshore development unit 2, requested permission to build a sixfoot fence through a 15-foot city-owned setback in front of his house.

He supported his plea with photographs and a map of the landscaping he was contemplating, and cited that such a fense was permitted in unit No. 1. He argued he wanted privacy and said the fence would not interfere with the water view for passersby.

On recommendation of the planning commission, the counsil denied a permit for the fence.

Said Mayor Robert P. Watkins: "This body has worked long hours and engaged in long and bitter fights over this matter. The restrictions were the result of compromise. They are for the benefit of all. The waterfront should be an asset to all."

"You are forgetting the person who lives on the land," Menzel said. He predicted the rest of the residents would be unhappy too.

City Atty. William H. MacKay explained that the restrictions were part of a private contract and the council could not legally give relief.

The dispute was prominently in the news two years ago when the Belvedere Land Co. sought to build homes in stilts on the west shore inundated land. After months of harangue and repeated rejections by the city council, the developers changed the plans to a fill operation. Because of outraged protests of island residents who look down on the area, it became known as "Cannery Row."

A petition signed by 50 persons requesting removal of a recently installed stop signal at Golden Gate and Oak Avenues was submitted to the council. Close on its heels came a second petition signed by 26 persons thanking the council for installing the sign. The council took no action so the sign will remain.

On recommendation of City Mgr. Britton Rey, the council will study a change in the ordinance requiring residents to tie into a sewer line if their property line in within 300 feet of the line. The ordinance now specifies 200 feet from the house. Rey said that homes on the lower side of Belvedere Avenue have septic tanks and completion of the westshore sewer line will make a line available to them.

The Belvedere City Council also:

1. Voted to replace six street lights and install six more along San Rafael Avenue and Beach Road at a monthly cost of $725.20.

2. Reviewed a uniform animal ordinance for study and discussion at the September meeting. Rey termed the ordinance, which had been approved by the Humane Society, as one of the best of its type.

Three New Tiburon Businesses Approved

Three new business enterprises in Tiburon—a pizza restaurant, ice cream parlor and "English Inn"—were approved yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The inn, to include a bar and restaurant, is to be on Juanita Lane, opposite the Racoon Straits maritime center. The ice cream parlor is planned on Tiburon Boulevard next to the Tiburon fire station. Both are on land owned by Fred G. Zelinsky.

Senior planner Edmund Kagi said the inn would be built on land already set aside for downtown parking spaces for other Zelinsky projects.

George Banning, Belvedere Planning Commission chairman, told the county commission that parking along the Belvedere city line was a "serious problem" which would soon result in "streets choked with traffic."

The commission approved the new projects on condition that 113 parking spaces scattered over Zelinsky properties be established as permanent ent parking areas.

Permission to convert a building at 33 Main Street in to a pizza parlor was granted Andrew Di Scala, although Zelinsky objected in a letter to the commission that the restaurant would "attract too many juveniles."

Burglars Have Wide Range Of Tastes In Sausalito

Burglars' tastes in Sausalito run a broad gamut—from tuxedos and vests to Machiavelli and women's undies.

In one of three burglaries reported to police last night, Norman de Chaurom of 212 Cazneau Avenue reported someone stole his wife's slip, two pair of underpants and a brassiere from a dresser top but did not disturb jewelry on the dresser. The thief also took two paperback books, one on Machiavelli and one on Montrose, from a bookcase, he said. He estimated total loss at $10.

Upstairs in the same 212 Cazneau Avenue duplex, the burglar took jewelry from the apartment of Nicholas Newbeck—about $350 worth of it, Newbeck reported. Also stolen there was about $7 in coins.

C. M. Peterson reported that someone entered his home at 4 Bulkley Avenue sometime between 3:45 and 4:15 p.m. Sunday, apparently through an unlocked bathroom window.

Taken from a closet between the bath and bedroom; Peterson said, were a tuxedo, suit, two sport coats, three pair of slacks, two sweaters and two vests. Total value was estimated at $1,000 by Peterson.

Girl's Right To See Cuba Is Defended

Roger Esteeves of San Anselmo has defended his daughter's right to see Cuba despite a presidential order barring travel there.

He and parents of six other students among the 60 defying the governmental ban on travel in Castro's regime plan a "big welcome home" for the students when they return in approximately three weeks.

Regulations against travel by U.S. citizens to the island infringe "the civil right of American citizens to travel," the parents said at a news conference in San Francisco yesterday.

Esteves, asked if he thought his daughter, Caryl, saw all there was to see in Cuba, replied: "I don't think any of the students were shown the slummy side of life, but they are adults and able to decide this for themselves.

Miss Esteves is a 20-year-old student at San Francisco State College.

The State Department has said it will take away the students' passports when they return.

"If we can enlist public opinion in getting these oppressive regulations on travel repealed, our children will indeed have traveled in a good cause," said Harry Flemming, chairman of the San Francisco Bay Area Parents Committee for Student Cuban Travelers.

Watered Down Whisky Stolen

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Even being a burglary victim sometimes has its laughs.

Take the case of the guy who broke into Joe Barzizza's liquor store, looted the cash register and grabbed a bottle out of a window display.

All that real whisky on the shelves, and he had to go and steal a dummy fifth—full of bourbon-colored water.

Good School To Find Pretty Coeds

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) —Those males who consider the attractiveness of coeds when applying for college could do worse than reflect on Bowling Green State University.

Both Jacqueline Mayer, Miss America of 1963, and Bonnie Gawronski, Miss Ohio of 1963, were Bowling Green State students at the time of their succession to their titles.

Now It's The Girls Over Floral Parade

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—The Miss America Pageant, which began in 1921, had its origin in the Floral Parade held in 1902.

The Floral Parade was made up of rolling chairs decorated with flowers, with a girl in each chair. However only the beauty of the decorated chairs, and not that of the girls, was judged.

Planners Approve School Proposal

Use of a former residence in Santa Venetia as a school for mentally retarded children was approved by Marin County planning commissioners yesterday despite protests of neighbors.

The commission unanimously approved a use permit requested by the county superintendent of schools to establish mentally retarded classes at 29 Washington Street in Santa Venetia. Renewals for use permits for existing mentally retarded classrooms were also unanimously approved at 27 Meadow Drive, Alto, and 71 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia.

"The fact that there are few protests this year for those schools already established seems to indicate general acceptance," said Chairman Niels Schultz Jr.

Shortly after approval of the new school on Washington Street, however, a delegation of homeowners appeared to protest it as "unfitting for a residential area." The commission refused to reconsider the application and informed the protestants the matter would be heard heard next Tuesday at 2 p.m. by the board of supervisors.

"We're not against the children," said Joseph J. Burton, leader of the group which called itself the Golf Links Tract Property Owners Committee. "But people in the area have a poor understanding of what is proposed. The site is poorly suited for a school."

He presented the commission with a protest petition signed by 57 residents.

Daryl F. Hopkins, special education director for the county schools office, said use of homes for the children is a "step along the way . . . our dream is to build a center for these children instead of putting them in scattered classrooms."

County Auditor Michael Mitchell said the board of supervisors "was sold on the idea of such classrooms because no other education is available to these children."

Dante Bagnani, president of Marin Aid to Retarded Children, said mentally retarded children "learn elementary things in the home environment" of such school.

The Marin County Planning Commission Also:

1. Received a protest from 18 members of the Westbrae Homeowners Assn., near Fairfax, against use by Greyhound buses of an area near Oak Manor Drive and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard for an overnight parking lot. They said the use is "unsightly, noisy and a danger to children." Planning director B. D. Dobbs was directed to inquire whether the bus company must obtain permission from the commission for such parking.

2. Continued until Aug. 19 consideration of use permits for an American Baptist Church and Church of the Nativity in Marinwood.

3. Approved a six-lot subdivision of two acres in the San Geronimo Valley at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Meadow Way, requested by S. E. Unger.

4. Set for Aug. 19 public hearing of staff recommendations to rezone south San Rafael-San Quentin area properties from interim zoning.

5. Granted Alice M. Gatterdam permission to keep a house trailer on a 100-acre ranch near the Fallon-Two Rock Road in Northwest Marin.

6. Approved a tentative map for a 64-lot subdivision on 49 acres of the Sanchez ranch at Sutro Avenue and Vineyard Road near Novato. The subdividers, Roberts and Aguirre, agreed to extend a road to the subdivision boundary on the east with the possibility it will later connect with Sutro Avenue, making a through street.

7. Approved tentative map for unit two of Pleasant Valley, also subdivided by Roberts and Aguirre, of 90 lots on 36 acres off an extension of Center Road west of Sutro Avenue near Novato.

8. Approved another tentative subdivision map for Parlee Estates Unit 1, in Oakwood Valley beyond Tennessee Valley Road, provided developer Clifford Parlee presents a detailed planning map.

9. Agreed to divide a one acre area on Emlin Place off Laurel Grove Avenue in Kentfield into five lots since five houses have been on the land for 50 years. Spiliotis and Co plan to tear down the old houses and build new ones.

10. Adjourned until Aug. 19 in memory of the late Supervisor Walter R. Castro.

Town's Attorney Bill Is Going Up

The Town of Corte Madera's $3,000 bill for services of its town attorney last year—beyond his $200 per month retainer—was a $925 overcharge, but the bill for this year will be bigger.

The Corte Madera Town Council was so informed last night by Town Atty. Sherrod S. Davis of San Mateo.

Davis said the $925 error was made by a secretary in the legal firm of Wilson, Harzfeld, Jones and Morton, assessment district specialists, of which he is a member. He suggested it could be refunded by check or "carried as a credit."

Then he continued that a partner in his firm had suggested the $10 per hour used in figuring his time against the town's retainer fee was insufficient, and would be raised to $20 per hour for the new fiscal year.

Councilmen gulped, but made no outcry.

The $3,000 attorney bill was questioned at the council's June 13 meeting by Councilman Robert I. La Dow, who is now in a hospital in Princeton, N.J.

Davis was hired as town attorney in June, 1961, at a $200 per month retainer—the same paid Sausalito attorney John B. Ehlen, who preceded him in the job. In recent months, the retainer checks have been made out to the firm of Wilson, Harzfeld, Jones and Morton rather than to Davis himself—at Davis's request.

Ehlen said today that during the many years he served as Corte Madera town attorney, his annual bills "probably averaged no more than $400" beyond the retainer fee.

Boundary Plan Draws Warning

The state government soon will kill such "semi-autonomy" as local governments now have if officials are not vigilant, Corte Madera Town Councilman Charles F. Pendleton asserted last night.

He made his prediction in reporting to the council that the North Bay Division of the California League of Cities had urged a new, as yet nameless, body to handle boundary matters.

He said the body not only would decide on boundary matters but also decree whether a town might be incorporated, whether an assessment district could be formed, and whether an annexation could be effected.

"Their decisions would be non-appealable," said Pendleton, adding, "I'm going to tell Mayor (John F.) McInnis (of San Rafael) I think the matter is important enough to be taken up at a special meeting of the Marin Council of Mayors.

The division recommendation came after the league quashed a state proposal to have the governor name such boundary groups, said Pendleton.

FIRE SEASON CONDITIONS 'CRITICAL'

FRESNO (AP) — As the forest fire season reaches the halfway point, officials report conditions in Central California are just beginning to reach the critical stage.

"So far we are ahead of the game," said Bob Voss of the State Division of Forestry, "but Mother Nature has been on our side. Weather conditions now are becoming hotter and dryer. We still could have a bad fire season."

As of July 31st of this year, officials of the State Division of Forestry, Sierra National Firest and Sequoia—Kings National Forests report approximately 4,578 acres have been blackened by fires in the area from Kern County to Mono County. About 16,738 acres had been destroyed at this same time last year.

Zellerbach Praised By Javits, Kefauver

WASHINGTON (AP)—The late James D. Zellerbach was praised in the Senate today by Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) as a great businessman and "a great servant of the American people at home and abroad."

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) also paid tribute to the former industrialist, administrator and ambassador who died in San Francisco Saturday.

Corte Madera Moves On Retirement Plan

First step was taken last night toward a retirement plan for Corte Madera municipal employees.

The Corte Madera Town Council voted to spend $200 for an actuarial survey as preliminary to instituting a retirement plan, after learning that 17 of the 26 town employees had voted for such a plan.

The council, on urging of Councilman Charles F. Pendleton, ruled the fire department must be satisfied with a six-cylinder half-ton service truck instead of the eight-cylinder truck requested.

"The fire department always asks too much," complained Pendleton. "They always want as much power as they can get. It isn't necessary."

Town Mgr. Arthur H. Brandow was told to revise the specifications before calling for bids.

Mayor Edward W. Colthurst was away on vacation, Councilman Robert I. La Dow was absent because of a heart attack suffered in Princeton, N. J., July 24. Vice Mayor Albert E. Kogler presided.

In an unusually brief session, the council churned through a two-page agenda in one hour 20 minutes.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

1. Heard a report from Brandow that La Dow's employers, McGraw-Hill Book Co., reported La Dow was "doing nicely" but expected to remain in a Princeton hospital until Aug. 21 and then be confined to his home until about Oct. 1.

2. Set 8 p.m. Aug. 19 for public hearing on the fiscal 1964 budget of $483,560.

3. Heard that the new owner of the Marin Royal Apartments south of town and west of Highway 101, containing 33 registered voters, wishes to annex the property to the town. Brandow said he was awaiting word from the owner of the nearby Aloha Manor Apartments on possible annexation.

4. Acknowledged with thanks a check for $7,100 from Corte Madera Lions Club to help pay for two tennis courts in the town park.

5. Noted gratefully that "pressure by the Marin Municipal Water District and Attorney Samuel W. Gardiner" caused an insurance firm to agree to pay for $1,500 to $2,000 damage caused to Paradise Drive at Prince Royal Passage when a 14-inch water main ruptured last March.

6. Set public hearings for Aug. 19 on an amendment to the zoning ordinance to add to uses permitted in professional zones, and on an application by Robert F. Vogel to open a pharmacy in the Bank of America building.

7. Set for Sept. 16 public hearing on rezoning the old quarry site off Meadowsweet Drive from apartments to duplex.

8. On request of Campbell Bishop Chevrolet Co., which plans a Corte Madera branch, voted to ask the planning commission to recommend an ordinance amendment to increase the maximum permissable sign in a C-4 commercial service district from 100 to 200 square feet.

Good Turn Done In By City Workmen

MIAMI (AP)—Jack Bell, Miami columnist, said city street crews scooped out a shallow area 20 feet long in the parkway in front of his house, then apparently abandoned it.

Bell added topsoil and fertilizer and planted flowers. He carefully tended the plants and they were budding, when a city mowing crew came along and leveled the flower patch.

Council Gives Go-Ahead For Northgate District

The start on an industrial park in San Rafael was signalled last night as the city council gave the go-ahead to the Northgate Industrial Park Assessment District.

Contract for public improvements in the district was split between two firms, with Linscott Co. of San Rafael low bidder on the first phase at $244,437 and Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael low on the second phase at $140,984. Five firms bid on the work.

The industrial park will be developed by the Draper Companies on acreage across from the Northgate Regional Shopping Center now building at Highway 101 and Manuel Freitas Parkway.

Total cost of the district will be $708,951, reported Kenneth Jones of the San Mateo legal firm of Wilson, Harzfeld, Jones and Morton, assessment district attorneys. This is $12,515 above the original estimate, but Jones noted about 4.2 per cent had been saved by readvertising for bids after initial bids were rejected last month by the council.

Sale of the district's bonds to H and F Improvement Bond Co. of San Francisco at 99 per cent of par with six per cent interest was authorized.

The council last night heard from a frequent critic as Eugene F. O'Connor of 243 Laurel Place offered a couple of suggestions:

"When you get a new city hall, get a loudspeaker so the people can know what you're talking about. Otherwise order all residents of San Rafael to get hearing aids."

Also: "I read in the Independent that we are the richest per capita county in the state. But coming into San Rafael on the Miracle Mile you have 300 feet of lousy open ditch. . . When are you going to do something about it?"

Councilmen promised to get the loudspeaker. Councilman Fred E. Jensen said, "For four years I have wanted to cover that ditch, but I can't get the rest of the council to go for it."

The San Rafael City Council Also:

1. Referred to the public works department, for report in two weeks, a complaint by Virginio Regalia of a drainage problem near his home at 7 Clark Street.

2. Accepted from San Rafael Newport Co., a grant deed for a strip of land 20 feet wide for future widening of San Pedro Road.

3. Called for bids for opening Aug. 19 on the city's annual program of street resurfacing.

4. Voted final passage of an ordinance designating truck routes.

5. Authorized purchase from the county of a small piece of tax-deed property adjacent to the Glenwood fire station site, to be used for enlargement of the site.

6. Authorized sale of city-owned property at Miramar and Miraflores drives to Clifford W. Parlee for $5,500.

7. Put off until the Aug. 19 meeting, to await final assessment reports, setting of the city tax rate for fiscal 1964.

8. Received the annual audit from auditor H. D. Klinker.

9. Referred to the city attorney, a $93.34 claim for damages by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Trumbly for breakage of windows in their home adjacent to Sun Valley Playground.

10. Agreed to pay $619 — one-fourth of the contract price—toward removal of eucalyptus trees on Linden Lane in front of property of Dr. William R. Eastman Jr. and his neighbors. The property owners will pay the other three-fourths.

11. Authorized City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen to immediately screen applicants for an additional building inspector. During budget discission, councilmen had agreed to add the inspector later, but Andersen reported Chief Building Inspector Andrew Thomas is ill in a hospital so another inspector is needed promptly.

12. Instructed the traffic committee to work out some solution to the problem of G. Muttersbach, Tidewater Oil Co. distributor, whose place of business on Third Street is cut off from access by westbound traffic since the street was rebuilt as a divided highway.

Retarded Aide Pay Held Illegal

It would be illegal for the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department to pay part of the salary of an employee of the Marin Aid to Retarded Children as a contribution to that organization's program, City Atty. David Menary Jr. said today.

Menary was asked by the parks and recreation commission for an opinion on legality of a proposal that the city pay $200 of the salary of a person hired by the association to conduct a special summer recreation program for retarded children.

Menary said Recreation Director Joseph D. Rodota informed him that last year, the association requested a payment of $100 toward salary of the special program conductor. It was approved by the commission but was questioned by the city council on the basis of legality and was not paid, Rodota said.

This year, the association asked the $100 from last year and an additional $100 for this summer be paid.

"The city can provide services for the retarded children," held Menary, "but it would have to do so through a city program, not through a program of some organization."

Payment toward the salary of an employee of Marin Aid to Retarded Children would constitute a gift of public funds, which is illegal, the city attorney said.

The expenditure was questioned at last week's recreation commission meeting by commissioners Anita C. Strom, Arthur Fiedler and Charles L. Tacchi.

Explained Mrs. Strom: It's not a question of whether we want to help the mentally retarded, but rather it is a question of our legal responsibilities to the taxpayers of the City of San Rafael."

Labor Is Called Industry Problem

The lack of an unskilled or semi-skilled labor force and the high cost of developing sites will keep industry from locating in Marin County, Robert Lagle, Novato city planner, last night told the Novato Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

"The North Marin Master Plan is guilty of setting land aside for industrial use which may better be used for home development," Lagle said.

The chamber board voted to discuss the subject of attracting industry at a future breakfast meeting.

Power Mixed Concrete Used

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—The only piece of power-driven machinery used in construction of Kentucky's state capitol building was a steamdriven concrete mixer.

The mason had a hand powered crane for lifting heavier stone and another worker designed, built and operated a hand machine for bending steel.

The capitol was constructed in 1906 at a cost of $1,820,000.

Ex-Officer Arrested For Parking Violations

John T. O'Haire, a 45-year-old former San Francisco police inspector, was arrested last night on a warrant for 43 parking violations.

O'Haire, of 2215 Oak Knoll Road, Novato, was released on $570 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court Monday. The tickets date back to 1962, including 37 in Marin County for $555 and six in San Francisco for $30.

She Takes Hike With $275 Wig

KANSAS CITY, Mo (AP)—The trim brunette, saying she was a guest, got a $20 hairdo at the hotel beauty shop.

Then she asked to take a $275 wig to show her hsuband before she bought it. The beauty shop manager agreed, especially when the customer insisted on leaving her own purse as security.

When the customer failed to return the manager, Norma Clarke, looked at the purse's contents. They proved to be papers and a hotel ash tray.

The hotel said it had no guests corresponding to the description Miss Clarke gave.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy will not hold a news conference this week, the White House announced yesterday.

Town's Attorney Bill Is Going Up

The Town of Corte Madera's $3,000 bill for services of its town attorney last year—beyond his $200 per month retainer—was a $925 overcharge, but the bill for this year will be bigger.

The Corte Madera Town Council was so informed last night by Town Atty. Sherrod S. Davis of San Mateo.

Davis said the $925 error was made by a secretary in the legal firm of Wilson, Harzfeld, Jones and Morton, assessment district specialists, of which he is a member. He suggested it could be refunded by check or "carried as a credit."

Then he continued that a partner in his firm had suggested the $10 per hour used in figuring his time against the town's retainer fee was insufficient, and would be raised to $20 per hour for the new fiscal year.

Councilmen gulped, but made no outcry.

The $3,000 attorney bill was questioned at the council's June 13 meeting by Councilman Robert I. La Dow, who is now in a hospital in Princeton, N.J.

Davis was hired as town attorney in June, 1961, at a $200 per month retainer—the same paid Sausalito attorney John B. Ehlen, who preceded him in the job. In recent months, the retainer checks have been made out to the firm of Wilson, Harzfeld, Jones and Morton rather than to Davis himself—at Davis's request.

Ehlen said today that during the many years he served as Corte Madera town attorney, his annual bills "probably averaged no more than $400" beyond the retainer fee.

Boundary Plan Draws Warning

The state government soon will kill such "semi-autonomy" as local governments now have if officials are not vigilant, Corte Madera Town Councilman Charles F. Pendleton asserted last night.

He made his prediction in reporting to the council that the North Bay Division of the California League of Cities had urged a new, as yet nameless, body to handle boundary matters.

He said the body not only would decide on boundary matters but also decree whether a town might be incorporated, whether an assessment district could be formed, and whether an annexation could be effected.

"Their decisions would be non-appealable," said Pendleton, adding, "I'm going to tell Mayor (John F.) McInnis (of San Rafael) I think the matter is important enough to be taken up at a special meeting of the Marin Council of Mayors.

The division recommendation came after the league quashed a state proposal to have the governor name such boundary groups, said Pendleton.

FIRE SEASON CONDITIONS 'CRITICAL'

FRESNO (AP) — As the forest fire season reaches the halfway point, officials report conditions in Central California are just beginning to reach the critical stage.

"So far we are ahead of the game," said Bob Voss of the State Division of Forestry, "but Mother Nature has been on our side. Weather conditions now are becoming hotter and dryer. We still could have a bad fire season."

As of July 31st of this year, officials of the State Division of Forestry, Sierra National Firest and Sequoia—Kings National Forests report approximately 4,578 acres have been blackened by fires in the area from Kern County to Mono County. About 16,738 acres had been destroyed at this same time last year.

Zellerbach Praised By Javits, Kefauver

WASHINGTON (AP)—The late James D. Zellerbach was praised in the Senate today by Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) as a great businessman and "a great servant of the American people at home and abroad."

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) also paid tribute to the former industrialist, administrator and ambassador who died in San Francisco Saturday.

Corte Madera Moves On Retirement Plan

First step was taken last night toward a retirement plan for Corte Madera municipal employees.

The Corte Madera Town Council voted to spend $200 for an actuarial survey as preliminary to instituting a retirement plan, after learning that 17 of the 26 town employees had voted for such a plan.

The council, on urging of Councilman Charles F. Pendleton, ruled the fire department must be satisfied with a six-cylinder half-ton service truck instead of the eight-cylinder truck requested.

"The fire department always asks too much," complained Pendleton. "They always want as much power as they can get. It isn't necessary."

Town Mgr. Arthur H. Brandow was told to revise the specifications before calling for bids.

Mayor Edward W. Colthurst was away on vacation, Councilman Robert I. La Dow was absent because of a heart attack suffered in Princeton, N.J., July 24. Vice Mayor Albert E. Kogler presided.

In an unusually brief session, the council churned through a two-page agenda in one hour 20 minutes.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

1. Heard a report from Brandow that La Dow's employers, McGraw-Hill Book Co., reported La Dow was "doing nicely" but expected to remain in a Princeton hospital until Aug. 21 and then be confined to his home until about Oct. 1.
2. Set 8 p.m. Aug. 19 for public hearing on the fiscal 1964 budget of $483,560.
3. Heard that the new owner of the Marin Royal Apartments south of town and west of Highway 101, containing 33 registered voters, wishes to annex the property to the town. Brandow said he was awaiting word from the owner of the nearby Aloha Manor Apartments on possible annexation.
4. Acknowledged with thanks a check for $7,100 from Corte Madera Lions Club to help pay for two tennis courts in the town park.
5. Noted gratefully that "pressure by the Marin Municipal Water District and Attorney Samuel W. Gardiner" caused an insurance firm to agree to pay for $1,500 to $2,000 damage caused to Paradise Drive at Prince Royal Passage when a 14-inch water main ruptured last March.
6. Set public hearings for Aug. 19 on an amendment to the zoning ordinance to add to uses permitted in professional zones, and on an application by Robert F. Vogel to open a pharmacy in the Bank of America building.
7. Set for Sept. 16 public hearing on rezoning the old quarry site off Meadowsweet Drive from apartments to duplex.
8. On request of Campbell Bishop Chevrolet Co., which plans a Corte Madera branch, voted to ask the planning commission to recommend an ordinance amendment to increase the maximum permissable sign in a C-4 commercial service district from 100 to 200 square feet.

Good Turn Done In By City Workmen

MIAMI (AP)—Jack Bell, Miami columnist, said city street crews scooped out a shallow area 20 feet long in the parkway in front of his house, then apparently abandoned it.

Bell added topsoil and fertilizer and planted flowers. He carefully tended the plants and they were budding, when a city mowing crew came along and leveled the flower patch.

Council Gives Go-Ahead For Northgate District

The start on an industrial park in San Rafael was signalled last night as the city council gave the go-ahead to the Northgate Industrial Park Assessment District.

Contract for public improvements in the district was split between two firms, with Linscott Co. of San Rafael low bidder on the first phase at $244,437 and Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael low on the second phase at $140,984. Five firms bid on the work.

The industrial park will be developed by the Draper Companies on acreage across from the Northgate Regional Shopping Center now building at Highway 101 and Manuel Freitas Parkway.

Total cost of the district will be $708,951, reported Kenneth Jones of the San Mateo legal firm of Wilson, Harzfeld, Jones and Morton, assessment district attorneys. This is $12,515 above the original estimate, but Jones noted about 4.2 per cent had been saved by readvertising for bids after initial bids were rejected last month by the council.

Sale of the district's bonds to H and F Improvement Bond Co. of San Francisco at 99 per cent of par with six per cent interest was authorized.

The council last night heard from a frequent critic as Eugene F. O'Connor of 243 Laurel Place offered a couple of suggestions:

"When you get a new city hall, get a loudspeaker so the people can know what you're talking about. Otherwise order all residents of San Rafael to get hearing aids."

Also: "I read in the Independent that we are the richest per capita county in the state. But coming into San Rafael on the Miracle Mile you have 300 feet of lousy open ditch. . . When are you going to do something about it?"

Councilmen promised to get the loudspeaker. Councilman Fred E. Jensen said, "For four years I have wanted to cover that ditch, but I can't get the rest of the council to go for it:"

The San Rafael City Council Also:

1. Referred to the public works department, for report in two weeks, a complaint by Virginio Regalia of a drainage problem near his home at 7 Clark Street.
2. Accepted from San Rafael Newport Co., a grant deed for a strip of land 20 feet wide for future widening of San Pedro Road.
3. Called for bids for opening Aug. 19 on the city's annual program of street resurfacing.
4. Voted final passage of an ordinance designating truck routes.
5. Authorized purchase from the county of a small piece of tax-deed property adjacent to the Glenwood fire station site, to be used for enlargement of the site.
6. Authorized sale of city-owned property at Miramar and Miraflores drives to Clifford W. Parlee for $5,500.
7. Put off until the Aug. 19 meeting, to await final assessment reports, setting of the city tax rate for fiscal 1964.
8. Received the annual audit from auditor H. D. Klinker.
9. Referred to the city attorney, a $93.34 claim for damages by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Trumbly for breakage of windows in their home adjacent to Sun Valley Playground.
10. Agreed to pay $619 — one-fourth of the contract price—toward removal of eucalyptus trees on Linden Lane in front of property of Dr. William R. Eastman Jr. and his neighbors. The property owners will pay the other three-fourths.
11. Authorized City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen to immediately screen applicants for an additional building inspector. During budget discission, councilmen had agreed to add the inspector later, but Andersen reported Chief Building Inspector Andrew Thomas is ill in a hospital so another inspector is needed promptly.
12. Instructed the traffic committee to work out some solution to the problem of G. Muttersbach, Tidewater Oil Co. distributor, whose place of business on Third Street is cut off from access by westbound traffic since the street was rebuilt as a divided highway.

Retarded Aide Pay Held Illegal

It would be illegal for the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department to pay part of the salary of an employee of the Marin Aid to Retarded Children as a contribution to that organization's program, City Atty. David Menary Jr. said today.

Menary was asked by the parks and recreation commission for an opinion on legality of a proposal that the city pay $200 of the salary of a person hired by the association to conduct a special summer recreation program for retarded children.

Menary said Recreation Director Joseph D. Rodota informed him that last year, the association requested a payment of $100 toward salary of the special program conductor. It was approved by the commission but was questioned by the city council on the basis of legality and was not paid, Rodota said.

This year, the association asked the $100 from last year and an additional $100 for this summer be paid.

"The city can provide services for the retarded children," held Menary, "but it would have to do so through a city program, not through a program of some organization."

UNDERGROUND PLAN FOR UTILITIES

Mill Valley Council Approves First Reading Of Ordinance

Mill Valley City Council moved toward requiring partial underground utilities for new residential subdivisions last night.

The council approved first reading of an ordinance that would permit the city to require "streamlining" of utilities.

Metal poles and high voltage lines would be above ground, but all other facilities would be underground, and the old-style wooden poles would be eliminated.

E. L. Friberg of Goheen Construction Co. protested that the cost of partial underground facilities would be "economically infeasible" for the subdivider.

City Atty. Leland H. Jordan said the ordinance leaves room for appeal by subdividers.

"If we don't start somewhere, we'll never get anywhere," said Acting Mayor George D. Monardo.

Manuel Gomez charged the proposed ordinance was not clear because it did not specify what comprises a subdivision. "Not even the city council has any idea what they're voting on," he said.

The council delayed action on a proposed ordinance requiring a complete underground utility system for a section of Miller Avenue.

The council heard a report from City Mgr. A. F. Almcrants that inclusion of the city's 42 "miscellaneous" employees in a comprehensive retirement system, similar to the system covering safety employees, would cost $4,000 a year.

Police Sgt. William Walsh, representing the city employee's association, said the association favors the inclusion.

The proposed system would lower the mandatory retirement age for non-safety personnel from 70 to 65. The proposal was referred to the personnel committee.

"Only two employees would be effected immediately," Monardo said.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

1. Voted to place $91,000 of the retirement fund in savings and loan associations "to get the highest form of return." Councilman George Blackwell, William M. Secor and Monardo voted yes. Mayor Joseph F. Sheeks and Councilman Michael Wornum were absent.
2. Commended the Mill Valley Police Department for its record of 12 years without a pedestrian death.
3. Authorized the city manager to negotiate with F. A. Forde Co., contractors, to work on the Marior Avenue slide. The council received no bid on the job, but three proposals that came in after the bid deadline. E. A. Forde Co. had the lowest offer, $14,700. City Engineer Stanley M. Bala had estimated the job at $12,000.
4. Adopted an ordinance setting taxi waiting time rates at $4 per hour.
5. Referred a proposed ordinance on animal control to the city attorney with instructions to put it in code form.
6. Deleted a section from a proposed tree ordinance that would have required the property owner to trim and maintain trees on adjacent city property.
7. Authorized the city engineer to prepare a cost estimate on the improvement of East Blithedale Avenue. Almcrants said property owners in the area are agreeable to granting rights of way.
8. Set for Sept. 16 at 8 p.m. a hearing on the Redwood Camp annexation.
9. Received a letter from the State Cooperative Personnel Services that a position classification and salary survey of the city's 65 full time positions would cost a maximum of $1,700.
10. Denied a request of Dr. J. Alfred Rider to release the $2,270 bond he put up for subdivision improvements.

THE STORY OF GEORGE

Marin's IBM Costs $8,000 A Month—Is It All Worth It?

By ALTON S. BOCK
(Second in a Series)

Nearly a million dollars has been invested in Marin County's electronic data processing bureau since it was set up six years ago.

International Business Machines Corp. collects $8,045 each month for rental of "George," the bureau's mammoth, multi-purpose computer.

Is it worth it? Is this "brain machine" really an efficient money-saving servant of the taxpayers? Or is Marin's government hopelessly in the clutches of a metal monster?

"George," himself, for all his abilities, can't answer these questions.

Savings have been reported in the operation of departments and districts which use data processing, but the number of men and women required to feed "George" new problems grows steadily.

It has become routine around the Civic Center for county employees to remark, half seriously: "Pretty soon we'll all be working for data processing." The board of supervisors from time to time expresses concern that "George" is leading the county down the road to a kind hell ruled by electronic brains.

Supervisor William D. Fusselman, who made the original motion to authorize installation of data processing six years ago, said at a recent board meeting: "The cost will go up, I can tell you right now. IBM will come up with a new machine, and we'll be paying for a new study to see how we can make use of it."

The cost is going up. A budget of $282,715 for data processing is included in the proposed final county budget for fiscal 1963-64.

During the first year of the data processing bureau's operation, 1957-58, less than $40,000 was budgeted. In 1961-62 the amount climbed to $85,853, then to $181,829 the next fiscal year, and to $210,715 for the year which closed June 30.

Employees in data processing—systems analysts, keypunch operators, and supervisors—have increased from seven to 22 proposed for the new fiscal year.

Total county budgets have become bigger each year, and the total number of county employees has increased. According to the preliminary budget, there will be 821 employees this year compared to 772 for the year just concluded.

But, although the population of Marin—and the services demanded from the county—have grown rapidly in six years, no new clerical position has been added which could be related to work now done by data processing.

A survey by Asst. Auditor George R. Donaldson shows that one clerk may have been deleted since data processing was installed.

Data processing has not eliminated any job. Nobody promised it would do so, although there have been suggestions it might eventually.

Has the number of employees required to run data processing exceeded the number of clerks the county would have been put into operation?

Auditor Michael Mitchell, whose department includes the data processing bureau, says that if "George' 'and all that goes with him were packed up and shipped back to IBM today, the county would have to spend $583,200 a year to hire nearly 100 clerks to do the work.

The county's clerical help during the six years prior to data processing increased by approximately 60. The cost of adding that many more clerks during the past six years would appear to be less than the actual cost for data processing to date.

Asst. County Schools Supt. Rudolph S. Kupfer, who handles payroll distribution for all public schools in the county and whose department is a major client of data processing, says the job of writing paychecks has increased 50 per cent in four years.

Some school districts have had trouble keeping up with preparation of employee statistics for "George's" use.

The Dixie School District, for instance, found it necessary a few months ago to hire an extra part-time payroll clerk.

"This is something we are going to work out soon with the districts," says Arleigh Sewell, director of data processing. "We will be able to set up systems for keeping all these records up to date and reduce routine clerical work."

"George" has expensive tastes in the sort of paper, cards and labels he does his work on, but departments which pay for these forms indicate total costs are less than for duplicating material and equipment previously required.

"We no longer have to use such things as address plates and stamps," says Asst. Assessor Herschel Johnson.

Mitchell emphasizes the data processing system is "nothing more than a service to other departments and districts." Before a new use for data processing is set up for any agency, some economy must be justified. But this may often be a "potential saving" rather than tangible. "There may be an immediate saving, or there may be a long-term saving over a period of two years or so," Mitchell says.

"We've never rejected a program once we've undertaken it," says Sewell, "but we have made some changes as we've gone along in certain cases . . It's also necessary to have some faith in what we—and the machines—can do."

He asks: "Is it worth spending thousands of dollars on a survey just to prove we're saving $1,000?"

2nd Sausalito Zoning Suit Goes Before Judge

The second of two attempts to overthrow Sausalito's zoning ordinance came before Judge Thomas F. Keating yesterday in Marin County Superior Court.

Keating earlier refused the city's request to throw out one case in which the Ardilla Land Co. is seeking to build an apartment house.

In yesterday's action, Marian Frick has sued for the right to construct a hotel, and the city has again asked that the case be thrown out of court without a trial. The judge took the matter under submission.

Frick's attorney, Norman Leonard, argued that the city should allow Mrs. Frick to build because the council and city officers have been arbitrary and unreasonable in dealing with her request for a variance.

He has also asked that the city be prohibited from rezoning the land in question. In the suit he claims, as did Ardilla, that the whole zoning ordinance should be declared invalid because it was passed as an interim ordinance six years ago.

City Atty. Leland H. Jordan answered that granting a variance by a city can't be forced by a court as long as the land can be put to some use.

He also said the courts can not prevent a city council from rezoning land, or passing any other ordinance within the power of the council, although the ordinance might be overruled by a court after the council vote.

Mead Theater Due Repairs Of $61,000

Mead Theater at Tamalpais High School will be repaired for about $61,000, the Tamalpais Union High School District board decided last night.

The repairs, to be completed in about five months, will consist of replacement of deteriorated or undersize structural members in the stands, installation of adequate lateral bracing, replacement of seat planking, and design improvements for the stage.

Architect Ralph B. Priestley told the board the stands at the theater are in a "dangerous situation."

Priestley said that in inspection showed many structural members designated in the plans filed with the State Division of Architecture had not been installed.

The strength of other members and lateral braces is inadequate, according to current standards of the State Division of Architecture.

About 35 per cent of the structural members showed signs of dry rot, Priestley said.

The board, in voting to rehabilitate the structure, discarded the alternatives of replacing the badly deteriorated members for $5,000 or building a complete new theater of steel and concrete for $122,000.

Judge Closes Book On Weird Extortion Case

Judge N. Charles Brusatori yesterday closed the book on a weird extortion attempt against a Larkspur banker two years ago.

At request of the district attorney's office, Judge Brusatori dismissed charges of conspiracy and impersonating an officer against Robert Terry Brown, who escaped from the county before facing trial last year.

Brown and William A. Simon were arrested Sept. 21, 1961, in the home of Redmond Everhard, at 210 Murray Avenue, Larkspur, after Everhard phoned police to ask about the pair, who said they were arresting him on suspicion of lewd acts, but offered to free him for $10,000 "bail."

Simon later pleaded guilty to the conspiracy charge and was fined $750. The dismissal yesterday in Marin County Superior Court came after the district attorney's office decided the time lag would make prosecution too difficult.

Nine Get Assessment Cuts —Board To Meet Deadline

With a minimum of debate, Marin County supervisors yesterday polished off all but one of 10 protests from land owners on the assessments of their property.

Nine got cuts in their assessments, including a $26,500 reduction for a large area of farm land owned by Anthony Silveira in Lucas Valley.

Supervisors agreed they would meet the Wednesday deadline for finishing equalization hearings with ease. Last week County Auditor Michael Mitchell told the supervisors he would be fined $1,000 by the state if the equalizations weren't completed in time.

Chairman William D. Fusselman, who last week expressed annoyance over Mitchell's prodding, informed the board he never had any intention of causing anyone a $1,000 fine.

"I had every intention of finishing on time," he said. "I merely meant that if anyone is left out, they'll be entitled to an answer later. We can always make a refund if it's called for. "This has been one of the best assessment hearings I've sat through," he added.

The board lowered the assessed value of land at the Meadow Club leased from the Marin Municipal Water District (including the golf course) from $72,540 to $54,170 and improvements on the land from $21,390 to $19,060.

Attorneys Julius H. Selinger and Stephen H. Kaufmann last week argued that assessment should be lower since the land is leased and could be taken back by the water district.

Eighty-five acres of Silveira's property was lowered from $1,500 to $1,200 assessed value per acre. Eight acres restricted for use because of the nearby Nike site went from $300 to $100 assessed value an acre, and a third area was reduced from $1,770 to $1,170. Total assessed value of Silveira's land went from $130,000 down to $103,500.

Seagoing Classroom Has 31-Year Career

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (UPI)—The research vessel Atlantis, which has sailed about 1.5 million miles during its 31-year career, will become a seagoing classroom this summer.

It will be used in connection with three new courses in oceanography being offered by the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, non-profit research organization.

Sword Production Still Going Strong

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—His manufacturing operation has produced 200,000 swords since he started his own plant in 1945, James Oliver estimates.

Farming out some of the work to a dozen or so other business places around Columbus, Oliver is producing about 10,000 swords a year for ceremonial use by the Knights of Columbus and Chevalier de Colombo in Canada.

A permanent outdoor barbecue surfaced with real ceramic tile will be easy to clean, heatproof and durable.

Young Sinatra Rivals Father

ANAHEIM (AP)—Frank Sinatra, perhaps the most imitated popular singer of the day, may have sired his most challenging rival.

Last night, Frank Sinatra Jr., 19, came back to Disneyland as a star—almost a year to the day when, as an amateur, he walked up to the bandstand and asked to sing a few choruses with the Elliott Bros. orchestra.

His appearance last night—and again tonight—is with the reincarnated Tommy Dorsey orchestra—using the same arrangements that made his dad famous in 1939-41.

American-Hungarian Relations Discussed

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Premier Janos Kadar and W. Averell Harriman discussed possibilities of improving American-Hungarian relations when the U.S. assistant secretary of state was in Moscow to negotiate the nuclear test ban treaty, Kadar said yesterday.

Kadar told a Soviet-Hungarian friendship rally "we must realize that the American leaders do not love Hungary's government and leaders more than some years ago, yet sober and realistic policies seem to prevail among them these days."

UNDERGROUND PLAN FOR UTILITIES

Mill Valley Council Approves First Reading Of Ordinance

Mill Valley City Council moved toward requiring partial underground utilities for new residential subdivisions last night.

The council approved first reading of an ordinance that would permit the city to require "streamlining" of utilities.

Metal poles and high voltage lines would be above ground, but all other facilities would be underground, and the old-style wooden poles would be eliminated.

E. L. Friberg of Goheen Construction Co. protested that the cost of partial underground facilities would be "economically infeasible" for the subdivider.

City Atty. Leland H. Jordan said the ordinance leaves room for appeal by subdividers.

"If we don't start somewhere, we'll never get anywhere," said Acting Mayor George D. Monardo.

Manuel Gomez charged the proposed ordinance was not clear because it did not specify what comprises a subdivision. "Not even the city council has any idea what they're voting on," he said.

The council delayed action on a proposed ordinance requiring a complete underground utility system for a section of Miller Avenue.

The council heard a report from City Mgr. A. F. Almcrants that inclusion of the city's 42 "miscellaneous" employees in a comprehensive retirement system, similar to the system covering safety employees, would cost $4,000 a year.

Police Sgt. William Walsh, representing the city employee's association, said the association favors the inclusion.

The proposed system would lower the mandatory retirement age for non-safety personnel from 70 to 65. The proposal was referred to the personnel committee.

"Only two employees would be effected immediately," Monardo said.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

1. Voted to place $91,000 of the retirement fund in savings and loan associations "to get the highest form of return." Councilman George Blackwell, William M. Secor and Monardo voted yes. Mayor Joseph F. Sheeks and Councilman Michael Wornum were absent.
2. Commended the Mill Valley Police Department for its record of 12 years without a pedestrian death.
3. Authorized the city manager to negotiate with F. A. Forde Co., contractors, to work on the Marior Avenue slide. The council received no bid on the job, but three proposals that came in after the bid deadline. E. A. Forde Co. had the lowest offer, $14,700. City Engineer Stanley M. Bala had estimated the job at $12,000.
4. Adopted an ordinance setting taxi waiting time rates at $4 per hour.
5. Referred a proposed ordinance on animal control to the city attorney with instructions to put it in code form.
6. Deleted a section from a proposed tree ordinance that would have required the property owner to trim and maintain trees on adjacent city property.
7. Authorized the city engineer to prepare a cost estimate on the improvement of East Blithedale Avenue. Almcrants said property owners in the area are agreeable to granting rights of way.
8. Set for Sept. 16 at 8 p.m. a hearing on the Redwood Camp annexation.
9. Received a letter from the State Cooperative Personnel Services that a position classification and salary survey of the city's 65 full time positions would cost a maximum of $1,700.
10. Denied a request of Dr. J. Alfred Rider to release the $2,270 bond he put up for subdivision improvements.

THE STORY OF GEORGE

Marin's IBM Costs $8,000 A Month—Is It All Worth It?

By ALTON S. BOCK
(Second in a Series)

Nearly a million dollars has been invested in Marin County's electronic data processing bureau since it was set up six years ago.

International Business Machines Corp. collects $8,045 each month for rental of "George," the bureau's mammoth, multi-purpose computer.

Is it worth it? Is this "brain machine" really an efficient money-saving servant of the taxpayers? Or is Marin's government hopelessly in the clutches of a metal monster?

"George," himself, for all his abilities, can't answer these questions.

Savings have been reported in the operation of departments and districts which use data processing, but the number of men and women required to feed "George" new problems grows steadily.

It has become routine around the Civic Center for county employees to remark, half seriously: "Pretty soon we'll all be working for data processing." The board of supervisors from time to time expresses concern that "George" is leading the county down the road to a kind hell ruled by electronic brains.

Supervisor William D. Fusselman, who made the original motion to authorize installation of data processing six years ago, said at a recent board meeting: "The cost will go up, I can tell you right now. IBM will come up with a new machine, and we'll be paying for a new study to see how we can make use of it."

The cost is going up. A budget of $282,715 for data processing is included in the proposed final county budget for fiscal 1963-64.

During the first year of the data processing bureau's operation, 1957-58, less than $40,000 was budgeted. In 1961-62 the amount climbed to $85,853, then to $181,829 the next fiscal year, and to $210,715 for the year which closed June 30.

Employees in data processing—systems analysts, keypunch operators, and supervisors—have increased from seven to 22 proposed for the new fiscal year.

Total county budgets have become bigger each year, and the total number of county employees has increased. According to the preliminary budget, there will be 821 employees this year compared to 772 for the year just concluded.

But, although the population of Marin—and the services demanded from the county—have grown rapidly in six years, no new clerical position has been added which could be related to work now done by data processing.

A survey by Asst. Auditor George R. Donaldson shows that one clerk may have been deleted since data processing was installed.

Data processing has not eliminated any job. Nobody promised it would do so, although there have been suggestions it might eventually.

Has the number of employees required to run data processing exceeded the number of clerks the county would have been put into operation?

Auditor Michael Mitchell, whose department includes the data processing bureau, says that if "George' 'and all that goes with him were packed up and shipped back to IBM today, the county would have to spend $583,200 a year to hire nearly 100 clerks to do the work.

The county's clerical help during the six years prior to data processing increased by approximately 60. The cost of adding that many more clerks during the past six years would appear to be less than the actual cost for data processing to date.

Asst. County Schools Supt. Rudolph S. Kupfer, who handles payroll distribution for all public schools in the county and whose department is a major client of data processing, says the job of writing paychecks has increased 50 per cent in four years.

Some school districts have had trouble keeping up with preparation of employee statistics for "George's" use.

The Dixie School District, for instance, found it necessary a few months ago to hire an extra part-time payroll clerk.

"This is something we are going to work out soon with the districts," says Arleigh Sewell, director of data processing. "We will be able to set up systems for keeping all these records up to date and reduce routine clerical work."

"George" has expensive tastes in the sort of paper, cards and labels he does his work on, but departments which pay for these forms indicate total costs are less than for duplicating material and equipment previously required.

"We no longer have to use such things as address plates and stamps," says Asst. Assessor Herschel Johnson.

Mitchell emphasizes the data processing system is "nothing more than a service to other departments and districts." Before a new use for data processing is set up for any agency, some economy must be justified. But this may often be a "potential saving" rather than tangible. "There may be an immediate saving, or there may be a long-term saving over a period of two years or so," Mitchell says.

"We've never rejected a program once we've undertaken it," says Sewell, "but we have made some changes as we've gone along in certain cases . . It's also necessary to have some faith in what we—and the machines—can do."

He asks: "Is it worth spending thousands of dollars on a survey just to prove we're saving $1,000?"

2nd Sausalito Zoning Suit Goes Before Judge

The second of two attempts to overthrow Sausalito's zoning ordinance came before Judge Thomas F. Keating yesterday in Marin County Superior Court.

The board lowered the assessed value of land at the Meadow Club leased from the Marin Municipal Water District (including the golf course) from $72,540 to $54,170 and improvements on the land from $21,390 to $19,060.

Attorneys Julius H. Selinger and Stephen H. Kaufmann last week argued that assessment should be lower since the land is leased and could be taken back by the water district.

Eighty-five acres of Silveira's property was lowered from $1,500 to $1,200 assessed value per acre. Eight acres restricted for use because of the nearby Nike site went from $300 to $100 assessed value an acre, and a third area was reduced from $1,770 to $1,170. Total assessed value of Silveira's land went from $130,000 down to $103,500.

San Jose School Site Still Problem

San Jose School District may not yet be through spending money to re-grade the San Jose Intermediate School site because of improper drainage.

Drainage has proved a problem for the two years since the school was built. On July 15, the district board authorized $2,000 to correct a "mistake" in the grading where a six-room addition is to be built. Last night, it ordered Supt. Ralph Giovanniello to have architects Rockwell and Banwell survey the rest of the site to see whether there are more such "mistakes."

A final budget of $1,550,868.20 was adopted, not calling for a change in the tax rate of $2.58 for general purposes and 31 cents for bond retirement for the 1963-64 fiscal year.

The board voted to use the county data processing bureau for school records, at a cost of 25 cents per pupil.

The title of the assistant superintendent, Duane Moeller, was changed to deputy superintendent. That of the curriculum coordinator, Robin Briscoe, was changed to director of educational services. Robert Garmston, sixth grade teacher at Loma Verde School, was raised to resource teacher at the same school.

Giovanniello was authorized to look for new school sites in the district.

Mill Valley School Tax Drop Is Due

The tax rate for the Mill Valley School District during 1963-64 is expected to drop nine and one-half cents, district trustees were informed last night.

The rate last year totaled $2.87 per $100 assessed valuation with a general operating tax of $2.21 and a 66-cent override. This year's tax rate has a $2.20 general operating tax and override of 57½ cents.

The drop, according to Asst. Supt. Leo B. Edson, is mainly due to increased state aid and the increase in bond redemption fund balances.

The board adopted a budget of $1,603,096. This compares with the 1962-63 budget of $1,578,050 or an increase of $25,046.

Trustees awarded a contract to Wilson-Wedekind Builders of San Rafael at $6,870 for alterations to Old Mill School auditorium. Other bidders were Herrero Brothers, San Francisco, $8,472 and Zoellner Construction Co., Ross, $8,487.

The board entered into an agreement with the 666th Radar Squadron atop Mount Tamalpais to transport children who reside on the base and who attend Mill Valley schools. It also made an agreement with the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum for participation in the museum activities at 10 cents per student.

Kathryn J. Steeves of San Francisco will replace Mrs. John S. O'Brien as third grade teacher at Alto School, Edson said.

Woodacre Rest Home Is Denied

Marin County planning commissioners denied permission to establish another convalescent home in the San Geronimo Valley yesterday after hearing protests from more than 40 residents.

A use permit for a convalescent home and boarding house for not more than 10 persons in a residence at 234 Railroad Avenue, Woodacre, was requested by Frank L. Colacicco of San Rafael.

"We don't have enough homes in Marin now for the aged," he told the commission. "There is a need for a Catholic home in the Woodacre area, and there would be little disturbance to anyone else . . . these people are brought to us and forgotten. They would have few visitors.

Residents in the area had a different idea, however, and objected to the home as "foreign to the character of the neighborhood." Seven of them wrote letters of protest, and 36 signed a petition against the proposed rest home.

Denial by the commission was unanimous.

NORTH RIDGE OPEN LANDS DESCRIBED

Mill Valley Councilmen Agree On Concept Of 'Scenic Easements'

Mill Valley City councilmen agreed last night with the concept of having open land set aside in the development of North Ridge.

John D. Erickson, city planning consultant, described the open land as a "scenic easement."

He outlined four possible development plans, pointing out that a planned residential district would provide the most open land with the least cost for improvements.

Under such a district the building lots would be concentrated in the area most suitable for building and the remainder would be left open, he said.

Development of the land under conventional zoning would "eat up all the land and result in a dull, sterotyped development," Erickson said. Conventional development also would require "excessive cut and fill," he said.

The city would have control over population density no matter how the homes were arranged on the property.

Dr. J. Alfred Rider said there were drawbacks to the planned residential district because it might limit the subdivider.

Erickson said the subdivider would have an option, but would be required to have a master plan for the area.

Acting Mayor George Monardo said that the council agrees with the concept of providing open land, but that the details will have to be worked out.

Erickson also said that creation of a community recreation district for the Enchanted Knolls Park and Point area would allow a variety of uses including small craft harbor, restaurant, hotel, concert hall, cafes, parks, playground, amusement park, beer garden or band stand.

The council adjourned at midnight, halting the discussion on the proposed recreation district, and decided to continue it at a later meeting.

Hill Junior High School Enlarging Is Ordered

Plans for enlarging Hill Junior High School by 18,000 square feet at a cost of $350,000 were ordered last night by the Novato Unified School District board.

Included in the enlargement will be a library, one general classroom; rooms for arts and crafts, homemaking and vocal music; additions to the boys' and girls' locker and shower rooms, and an additional multi-purpose room.

Architects Rockwell and Banwell were authorized to draw the plans. Completion is planned for school opening in September, 1964.

The board also authorized selling the $878,000 remainder of voted bond authorization to finance the junior high additions and build an elementary school of 14 classrooms in San Marin.

A final budget of $2,308,820 was adopted after no protest was heard at the public hearing. This budget is $24,000 less than the publication budget of $2,332,820. The difference is in the money in capital reserve, according to Supt. James G. Bunker.

"The tax rate will probably be two cents lower next year than this year, although it has not been figured out exactly," Bunker told the board. Novato Unified School District now has $3.85 general fund tax and 84 cents bond retirement for a total of $4.69 per $100 assessed valuation.

Superintendent Bunker proposed an increase in teacher salaries by $120 per year, from $4,750 to $4,850, at the bottom of the pay scale, and by $300, from $9,288 to $9,588 at the top. "This would cost the district about $33,250 a year," he said.

Board members indicated they might adopt this suggestion at a budget modification in three weeks.

Purchase of $2,970 in television sets for use in the language program in the five elementary schools and $2,152 in National Defense Education Act materials were authorized by the board.

Resignations were accepted from Lorna Woelfe as a teacher at Hill Junior High School and Karen Haynes as kindergarten teacher at Rancho School. Doris-Mae Gardner was hired to teach kindergarten at Rancho and Marcia Howard to teach at Hill Junior High.

Kentfield School Budget Up

A final fiscal 1964 budget of $901,392.03, up about $40,000 over last year, was adopted after a public hearing last night by the Kentfield School District Board.

The figure is about $10,000 over where it stood when the publication budget was adopted last month. The total budget a month ago actually was something more than $891,000 rather than the $837,795.56 previously announced, said Supt. Howard C. Harmon.

An increase of about $41,000 in teacher salaries plus minor hikes in other classifications (offset by decreases for capital outlay) helped cause the higher budget.

The $10,000 increase since last month results chiefly from "a county tax which will add $9,620 to the district's income," said Harmon.

The Kentfield School District Board also:

1. Approved expenditure of $1,961, an increase of $617.50 over the estimate, for a new drainage system at Greenbrae School, and about $1,600, an increase of about $800 over the estimate, for a water main and sprinkler system at the same school.
2. Authorized installation of a three-inch transit water pipe to replace a rusted pipe at Adaline E. Kent School.
3. Approved hiring Ghilotti Brothers to repair damage to the road to Kent School from College Avenue. Harmon reported the nearby Eat 'n' Run Drive-In promised to avoid causing further damage by not letting water from cleaning operations get on the road.
4. Accepted the resignation of Mrs. Newart Slaga eighth grade teacher at Kent School, and hired Mary E. Johnson as second grade teacher there at $6,000 a year, replacing Mrs. Karen Yore, who will become a reserve teacher.
5. Learned the State Department of Education has approved a central attendance accounting system for the district, relieving teachers of having to keep school registers and placing all details of attendance-keeping in the principals' offices.
6. Cancelled meetings set for Sept. 9 and Nov. 11, legal holidays, and voted to meet Sept. 3, 16 and 30, and Nov. 4 and 18.

Trustee Kenneth Treganowen was absent.

Theft Charges Figure Bounces Out Of Court

Edward John Meyer, who keeps bouncing in and out of court on petty theft charges, bounced out again today.

Judge Harold J. Haley discharged him during a preliminary examination on a felony charge of petty theft with a prior conviction. Public Defender Peter Allen Smith argued that Meyer was so drunk he couldn't have had the intent to commit a crime.

Meyer, 49, of Jessup Street, San Rafael, was acquitted by a jury in Marin County Superior Court July 24 of a charge of petty theft with a prior conviction, only to be arrested that night and booked on an identical charge when found wearing a jacket over his sportscoat. The jacket had been taken from a parked car.

Tiburon Unit Votes Drainage District

The Tiburon Sanitary District commission last night voted to proceed with formation of a drainage district.

"However, we cannot go ahead until we have received a petition signed by 60 per cent of the landowners," said Robbert A. Sterling, secretary. "We must wait until some group circulates such a petition."

A pension and retirement plan for the district's three employees was discussed.

Four Lumber Firms Closed In Dispute Will Be Reopened

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Four big Pacific Northwest lumber companies, which closed two months ago in a labor dispute, will reopen tomorrow.

Officials of unions involved in the dispute said their 14,000 workers would be back.

The unions — the Lumber and Sawmill Workers and the International Woodworkers of America — struck U.S. Plywood and St. Regis two months ago to back their demands for improved contracts.

These firms are members of the so-called Big Six Employer group.

San Jose School Site Still Problem

San Jose School District may not yet be through spending money to re-grade the San Jose Intermediate School site because of improper drainage.

Drainage has proved a problem for the two years since the school was built. On July 15, the district board authorized $2,000 to correct a "mistake" in the grading where a six-room addition is to be built. Last night, it ordered Supt. Ralph Giovanniello to have architects Rockwell and Banwell survey the rest of the site to see whether there are more such "mistakes."

A final budget of $1,550,868.20 was adopted, not calling for a change in the tax rate of $2.58 for general purposes and 31 cents for bond retirement for the 1963-64 fiscal year.

The board voted to use the county data processing bureau for school records, at a cost of 25 cents per pupil.

The title of the assistant superintendent, Duane Moeller, was changed to deputy superintendent. That of the curriculum coordinator, Robin Briscoe, was changed to director of educational services. Robert Garmston, sixth grade teacher at Loma Verde School, was raised to resource teacher at the same school.

Giovanniello was authorized to look for new school sites in the district.

Mill Valley School Tax Drop Is Due

The tax rate for the Mill Valley School District during 1963-64 is expected to drop nine and one-half cents, district trustees were informed last night.

The rate last year totaled $2.87 per $100 assessed valuation with a general operating tax of $2.21 and a 66-cent override. This year's tax rate has a $2.20 general operating tax and override of 57½ cents.

The drop, according to Asst. Supt. Leo B. Edson, is mainly due to increased state aid and the increase in bond redemption fund balances.

The board adopted a budget of $1,603,096. This compares with the 1962-63 budget of $1,578,050 or an increase of $25,046.

Tam High Board Fails In 'Gesture'

The Tamalpais Union High School District board tried last night to make a "public relations gesture" to taxpayers in the district in the form of an operational tax five cents below the maximum allowed by law.

However, the board failed.

Trustee Delman D. Smith moved that the final budget of $5,813,074, up $411,546 from 1962-1963, be adopted.

Trustee William B. Lewis seconded the motion and then asked if the budget could reflect a $1.85 operational tax rate, five cents below the maximum.

Smith countered that the lower tax rate might be "good public relations" but that it did not make good fiscal sense. "It isn't worth it," he said.

Trustees, determining that a lower tax rate would take too much money out of the $611,000 undistributed reserve fund, finally approved the budget based on the $1.90 maximum rate.

It was pointed out that it would be only the third time that the district levied the full rate. Last year the operational tax was $1.86.

The total tax rate in the district for 1962-63 was $2.22. This included $1.86 operational rate, 15 cents override and 21 cents bond issue redemption tax.

The Tamalpais Union High School District board also:

1. Awarded a contract to Takahara Landscape Service of Sacramento for $22,496 for turf and a sprinkler system at Sir Francis Drake High School.

2. Awarded a contract to Zoellner Construction Co. for $11,883 to improve the parking lot at Drake.

3. Approved change orders for $377.23 in Keyser Hall at Tamalpais High School and for $428.50 in the metal shop at Drake.

4. Granted maternity leave to Mrs. Lois L. Hoey, speech and hearing therapist, and hired Miss Arleen Sterling of Santa Rosa as an English teacher at Tamalpais and Mrs. Evelyn W. Leedy of Mill Valley as a physical education teacher.

Board Says Tomales Needs Bright Students

Bright students shouldn't be allowed to transfer from Tomales High School because the school "needs them," even though it may not offer them a wide range of academic courses.

This is what the Marin County Board of Education last night told parents of four Tomales students requesting transfer to the Tamalpais High School District.

There's no room for the transfer students in the Tamalpais District anyway, Dist. Supt. Chester G. Carlisle told the parents, who appealed their cases to the county board.

"The county board should not condone a policy which would allow students to transfer when these students may help the Tomales High School," said board member James A. Carroll. "This is a difficult decision, but I would move denial of the applications."

The board unanimously voted to refuse to allow the four students to transfer to Tamalpais District high schools.

"There's been a lot of criticism of Tomales," said board member Robert G. Randolph, "and it should be a problem that is handled in that area."

L. J. Meszaros of Inverness, who said his son Michael was unable to take Latin at Tomales, objected to the "assumption that I am prejudiced against Tomales High School . . . this should not be tied to the battles of the local school boards. There is no firm reason for the board's action here tonight, and it is not fitting for the board to question our motives."

"Our action may seem arbitrary," said county board member Patrick J. Pollock, "but there are no compelling reasons to take students out of the Tomales District. We can't force Tamalpais to take any transfer students unless there are reasons."

Carlisle said courses in French and Spanish, offered at Tomales, would serve for entrance requirements at University of California as well as would Latin or German, requested by the transfer applicants.

Meszaros disagreed, saying his son hopes to go to Harvard University, where four years of one language is preferred.

The Tamalpais District board has ruled that any transfer students must have tuition costs paid by their home district. Beyond the matter of finance, however, Carlisle said Tamalpais schools "won't have room for transfer students unless it is demonstrated they cannot get comparable courses elsewhere."

Dudley Dixon of Inverness, whose son Paul requested transfer, said the "idea that transfer students are a burden on taxpayers in another district is a line of specious reasoning. Public education ceases to be public under this phony argument."

Meszaros contended, "This is a county problem, not just a Tomales District problem."

Other students whose transfers were denied by the board were children of Donald M. Pattrson and Mrs. Philip K. Dick, both of Inverness.

Mill Valley Gets Building Inspector

Herbert William Street, building inspector in Pittsburg, Contra Costa County, will become chief building inspector of Mill Valley Sept. 3.

Mill Valley city councilmen last night approved the appointment of Street to fill the post left vacant by the death of Preston L. Canfield in April.

Street has been at Pittsburg for two years after working as a building inspector in El Cerrito.

Ronald Gander, assistant building inspector, has been acting building inspector. The council agreed that he should be employed on a temporary basis for six months after Street arrives.

The council also appointed two members to the city's architectural advisory committee for four-year terms. The new members are George Culler, a director of the San Francisco Museum of Arts, and Naphtali Knox, a planner with Livingston and Blayney, San Francisco planning consultants.

Board Votes To Annex To Mill Valley

The The Tamalpais Union High School District board last night voted to annex Tamalpais High School to Mill Valley.

The board acted after business director Frank Cassou said the city was seeking to increase its contract with the high school for sewer service from $900 to $3,800.

In a discussion with City Councilmen George D. Monardo and George Blackwell, who form the council's sanitary committee, it was indicated to Cassou that these fees would be abolished if the high school were annexed to the city.

Cassou said the raise was requested because the city "wants to relieve the tax levy on sewer service in the city."

Immediately board member William B. Lewis asked, "What would we lose if we annexed to the city?"

The only loss, according to Supt. Chester G. Carlisle, would be a "negative value" in the minds of some people with the high school more closely identified with Mill Valley.

Offsetting this loss, trustee Delman D. Smith said, was the "good business sense" in annexing.

The high school is adjacent to the city limits. Sewer, fire and police protection are provided by the city under contract.

The fire contract for this year stipulated a raise of from $25 to $50 per call. The board approved the sewer and fire contracts, pending outcome of annexation.

Prison Muslin 'Ring-Leader' Sent To Folsom

Jesse L. Dyes, named as the ringleader in a shouting protest of 43 Black Muslims at San Quentin Prison Sunday, was sent to Folsom State Prison yesterday, Associate Warden W. D. Achuff said today.

The transfer was made to separate Dyes from other San Quentin prisoners.

Hearings were continuing today to see if any disciplinary action will be taken against other inmates who participated. Achuff said he doubted that much would be done since most of the men "just went along for the ride."

The demonstration was motivated by the claim of religious persecution at the prison.

Central School Fire Needs Are Outlined

Sausalito's Central School can be brought up to fire code regulations by either installing a new sprinkling system or improving transoms, doors and some partitions, Sausalito School District trustees were told last night.

The board asked for three estimates on both proposals. The recommendations were made following an inspection of the school by the state fire marshal and Sausalito Fire Chief Matthew J. Perry. With either improvement, trustees learned, the school will not need to install a fire escape to the second floor as had been suggested at one time.

The board adopted its 1963-64 budget of $670,000. Trustees met last night, although their regular first meeting of the month is the second Monday, to get the budget to the county superintendent of schools by the deadline.

The Sausalito School District board also:

1. Was presented with a tentative program for pupil-personnel services by Adele Larson, eighth grade teacher at Richardson Bay School, and learned the service will be available to all four schools this fall instead of solely at Richardson Bay as in the past. Mrs. Larson will work on the program one-half time.

2. Was presented with copies of a seven-page booklet by Supt. Marcus F. Davis describing the physical and academic makeup and some policies and regulations of the district.

3. Heard that the Sausalito chamber of commerce will host a luncheon for new teachers at the Alta Mira Hotel Aug. 27.

New Ignacio Shopping Center Gains Approval

A new shopping center on seven acres off San Jose Boulevard, 1,000 feet west of Highway 101 in Ignacio, was given preliminary approval by the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday.

The center, to be developed by Walter Kieckhefer of San Rafael, will include stores and professional and office space.

Commissioners cut the proposed number of service stations from two to one after staff members told them there was already a "plethora" of stations in the Loma Verde area.

The commission continued Kieckhefer's application until precise plans are submitted.

Hollis Is Authorized $1,165 Salary Increase

An annual salary increase of $1,165 for Marin County Supt. of Schools Virgil S. Hollis has been authorized under new legislation, Hollis informed the county board of education last night.

The increase, from his present salary of $14,893 a year to $16,058, was granted under a revision of the basis for determining salaries of county superintendents.

Two years ago, the legislature adopted a formula whereby a superintendent's salary is based on the average salary of teachers. Updating of the average for teachers this year allows the increase.

There are nine ranges for county superintendents' salaries, according to the student population of each county. Marin is in the fourth range, and according to the revised, formula, the average teacher's salary is now $7,122 a year.

Hollis' salary boost became effective July 13, when the legislation was signed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown as a so-called "emergency" bill.

Injured fish are special prey for predators, scientists said, and warn other fish to keep away lest they also become prey.

The alarm substance apparently is in the skin of salt water fish and is based on the highly sensitive sense of smell of fish.

Tam High Board Fails In 'Gesture'

The Tamalpais Union High School District board tried last night to make a "public relations gesture" to taxpayers in the district in the form of an operational tax five cents below the maximum allowed by law.

However, the board failed.

Trustee Delman D. Smith moved that the final budget of $5,813,074, up $411,546 from 1962-1963, be adopted.

Trustee William B. Lewis seconded the motion and then asked if the budget could reflect a $1.85 operational tax rate, five cents below the maximum.

Smith countered that the lower tax rate might be "good public relations" but that it did not make good fiscal sense. "It isn't worth it," he said.

Trustees, determining that a lower tax rate would take too much money out of the $611,000 undistributed reserve fund, finally approved the budget based on the $1.90 maximum rate.

It was pointed out that it would be only the third time that the district levied the full rate. Last year the operational tax was $1.86.

The total tax rate in the district for 1962-63 was $2.22. This included $1.86 operational rate, 15 cents override and 21 cents bond issue redemption tax.

The Tamalpais Union High School District board also:

1. Awarded a contract to Takahara Landscape Service of Sacramento for $22,496 for turf and a sprinkler system at Sir Francis Drake High School.

2. Awarded a contract to Zoellner Construction Co. for $11,883 to improve the parking lot at Drake.

3. Approved change orders for $377.23 in Keyser Hall at Tamalpais High School and for $428.50 in the metal shop at Drake.

4. Granted maternity leave to Mrs. Lois L. Hoey, speech and hearing therapist, and hired Miss Arleen Sterling of Santa Rosa as an English teacher at Tamalpais and Mrs. Evelyn W. Leedy of Mill Valley as a physical education teacher.

Board Says Tomales Needs Bright Students

Bright students shouldn't be allowed to transfer from Tomales High School because the school "needs them," even though it may not offer them a wide range of academic courses.

This is what the Marin County Board of Education last night told parents of four Tomales students requesting transfer to the Tamalpais High School District.

There's no room for the transfer students in the Tamalpais District anyway, Dist. Supt. Chester G. Carlisle told the parents, who appealed their cases to the county board.

"The county board should not condone a policy which would allow students to transfer when these students may help the Tomales High School," said board member James A. Carroll. "This is a difficult decision, but I would move denial of the applications."

The board unanimously voted to refuse to allow the four students to transfer to Tamalpais District high schools.

"There's been a lot of criticism of Tomales," said board member Robert G. Randolph, "and it should be a problem that is handled in that area."

L. J. Meszaros of Inverness, who said his son Michael was unable to take Latin at Tomales, objected to the "assumption that I am prejudiced against Tomales High School . . . this should not be tied to the battles of the local school boards. There is no firm reason for the board's action here tonight, and it is not fitting for the board to question our motives."

"Our action may seem arbitrary," said county board member Patrick J. Pollock, "but there are no compelling reasons to take students out of the Tomales District. We can't force Tamalpais to take any transfer students unless there are reasons."

Carlisle said courses in French and Spanish, offered at Tomales, would serve for entrance requirements at University of California as well as would Latin or German, requested by the transfer applicants.

Meszaros disagreed, saying his son hopes to go to Harvard University, where four years of one language is preferred.

The Tamalpais District board has ruled that any transfer students must have tuition costs paid by their home district. Beyond the matter of finance, however, Carlisle said Tamalpais schools "won't have room for transfer students unless it is demonstrated they cannot get comparable courses elsewhere."

Dudley Dixon of Inverness, whose son Paul requested transfer, said the "idea that transfer students are a burden on taxpayers in another district is a line of specious reasoning. Public education ceases to be public under this phony argument."

Meszaros contended, "This is a county problem, not just a Tomales District problem."

Other students whose transfers were denied by the board were children of Donald M. Pattrson and Mrs. Philip K. Dick, both of Inverness.

Mill Valley Gets Building Inspector

Herbert William Street, building inspector in Pittsburg, Contra Costa County, will become chief building inspector of Mill Valley Sept. 3.

Mill Valley city councilmen last night approved the appointment of Street to fill the post left vacant by the death of Preston L. Canfield in April.

Street has been at Pittsburg for two years after working as a building inspector in El Cerrito.

Ronald Gander, assistant building inspector, has been acting building inspector. The council agreed that he should be employed on a temporary basis for six months after Street arrives.

The council also appointed two members to the city's architectural advisory committee for four-year terms. The new members are George Culler, a director of the San Francisco Museum of Arts, and Naphtali Knox, a planner with Livingston and Blayney, San Francisco planning consultants.

Humane Society Seeks Dog For Rabies Test

Marin County Humane Society officers today sought a beagle dog which bit Scott Emerson of 933 Las Pravadas Avenue, Terra Linda, while he was walking his own dog Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The beagle, which is being sought to determine if it has had rabies shots, got into a fight with Emerson's dog and was chewed around the neck. Emerson was bitten when he waded in to separate the fighters.

Hurt In Scooter Fall

Timothy Gahagan, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gahagan of 10 Raymond Avenue, San Anselmo, suffered a broken left ankle yesterday when he fell from a home-made scooter near his home. He was reported in good condition at Marin General Hospital today.

Board Votes To Annex To Mill Valley

The The Tamalpais Union High School District board last night voted to annex Tamalpais High School to Mill Valley.

The board acted after business director Frank Cassou said the city was seeking to increase its contract with the high school for sewer service from $900 to $3,800.

In a discussion with City Councilmen George D. Monardo and George Blackwell, who form the council's sanitary committee, it was indicated to Cassou that these fees would be abolished if the high school were annexed to the city.

Cassou said the raise was requested because the city "wants to relieve the tax levy on sewer service in the city."

Immediately board member William B. Lewis asked, "What would we lose if we annexed to the city?"

The only loss, according to Supt. Chester G. Carlisle, would be a "negative value" in the minds of some people with the high school more closely identified with Mill Valley.

Offsetting this loss, trustee Delman D. Smith said, was the "good business sense" in annexing.

Junior College Courses Approved At Prison

Junior college courses at San Quentin Prison were approved last night as an "experiment" by the Marin County Board of Education.

Supt. Virgil S. Hollis told the Board that the San Quentin adult education advisory committee had found "a need for the addition of a junior college program to existing high school and elementary programs."

He said the teaching staff at the prison school is "well qualified to teach college-level courses, and it would be no extra expense to the county."

In answer to a question from board member Patrick J. Pollock, however, Hollis admitted, "we haven't sat down and talked to the teachers about the proposal." But he said principal George Renworth of Tamal High School — the school within the prison — approved the idea and classes would be small enough to place little extra demand on the time of teachers.

"If we can get the courses accredited, it will be a really fine thing for our school at the prison," Hollis said.

On motion of Pollock, the board unanimously approved $150 to be paid to the Western Assn. of Schools and Colleges for study of the program next year to evaluate accreditation status of the prison junior college.

Hollis said courses would begin in October.

The County Board of Education also:

1. Delayed until September action on appointment of a replacement for Walter L. Johnson, who resigned from the board in June. Robert G. Randolph, chairman of the three-member committee named to select a replacement, said the committee "must meet again" to consider applicants.

2. Heard from board member James A. Carroll that his study of possible revision of board policy and regulations would be ready for submittal in October.

3. Received an opinion from the county counsel, requested last month, that the county superintendent has the right to hire or fire his staff members without approval of the board. Hollis repeated his earlier statement that he considers personnel matters a "shared responsibility with the board and would like to have it continue so."

4. Received annual reports from staff members, outlining their duties and conferences and meetings attended during the year.

5. Continued for further review a proposal that the county apply for funds for a school lunch program at the juvenile hall.

6. Heard from Asst. Supt. Edward R. Credell that the Marin County Teachers' Institute for the beginning of the school year will be held Sept. 6 at the Civic Center.

7. Adjourned until Sept. 3, a Tuesday, because of the Labor Day holiday.

Shy Collie Dog Missing In Hub

A shy collie named Destiny is lost, and the dog needs treatment for a rash on his back, his master said today.

Jorgen Andresen said he and his wife were moving to Fairfax and left the dog with a friend in San Anselmo. The 3-year-old sable and white collie ran away in San Anselmo. "Destiny's a very shy and nervous dog," said Andresen, "and needs treatment for a back rash. We'd appreciate getting our dog back."

Andresen said he doesn't have a phone yet, but anyone with information about the collie may call his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Andresen of 606 Locust Street, Sausalito.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

3 fryers, halved
5 tablespoons olive oil
1 medium onion
3 chicken livers, chopped
¼ pound sausage
½ teasp. garlic powder
½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1 tsp. poultry seasoning
¼ tsp. black pepper
1 tsp. celery salt
2 pkgs. frozen chopped spinach
1 cup bread crumb
½ cup grated parmesan cheese
5 eggs
¼ pint sour cream (or ¼ cup canned cream)

Saute' onion in oil. Add chopped chicken livers. Cook a minute or two. Put this mixture in large bowl. In same skillet, brown sausage, drain on paper towel and add to onion-liver mixture. Now place frozen spinach in skillet with small amount of water and salt and cook just until thawed. Drain thoroughly, pressing out as much moisture as possible. Add to onion mixture. Add remaining ingredients and mix well.

Meantime—wash, salt and pepper chicken halves. Broil until golden brown (turning often and basting with 1 cube butter). Set aside. One half-hour before serving, put stuffing in each chicken cavity and bake ½ hour at 350 degrees, basting every so often. Roasted potatoes may be cooked in another pan and then squeezed in around the chicken 10 minutes before chicken is done to pick up the chicken-butter flavor.

Two Old Pros Kuenn and Pierce Warm The Hearts Of S.F. Fans

CONNOLLY

Whether they do, or do not win the pennant this year, or next, or again, it is pretty safe to say that two members of the ball club, especially, have endeared themselves to San Francisco Giant fans. Both players are in the twilight of their brilliant careers and, you might say, are heading for the "last roundup" as active players.

If you haven't guessed who they are by now, I'm referring to Harvey Kuenn and Billy Pierce. I doubt if either will ever leave the Giant organization.

Pierce and Kuenn were the bulwarks of inspiration for the younger and more eager players in the dying days of the 1962 scramble. And here we are again, in the throes of another miraculous "charge" for a repeater, and both Pierce and Kuenn still weave the magic wand over their teammates.

They're a couple guys you have to stand pat for and listen to their words of wisdom.

Pierce may have lost some of the great stuff he had while pitching in his prime but he lost none of his cunning, and is one of the most likely prospects for a pitching coach when he decides to hang up the tools of torture.

KUENN, WITH the sharpest and keenest eye any batsman ever had, may not be able to gallop down the base lines as fast as he did while burning up the American League with Detroit, but like Pierce, he preserved his batting eye. He knows all the tricks.

It is a comfort and a great help for any leader to have the backing of two such fellows. Kuenn and Pierce are both cinches in my book to stick around for a long spell when their active days are over and I hope it'll be right here in San Francisco.

You just have to take a peek at the record of Billy Pierce as a pitcher to KNOW he'll be a natural as a teacher.

Since 1945, when he broke in with Buffalo he has been active, switching to Detroit the latter part of 1945, then back to Buffalo for two seasons and again with Detroit in 1948. For the next 13 years popular Billy was with the Chicago White Sox, coming to San Francisco in 1962.

HARVEY KUENN started his colorful career in Davenport in 1952 then switched to Detroit where he was one of the leading hitters and players for eight successive years before he went to Cleveland for one year and then came to the Bay Area in 1961 where he is now established as one of the sparkplugs for the Giants, whether in the lineup, on the bench or even coaching.

Duffalo Tries To Get Giants Back On The Winning Path

HOUSTON (AP) — He went 3-for-5, hit a home run, drove in two runs and scored twice—but Willie Mays has to be labeled the goat of a disheartening San Francisco loss at Houston yesterday.

The 6-5 defeat in the day's only major league game plunked the Giants five games behind Los Angeles and tied them for second with St. Louis in the National League pennant chase.

The two teams will meet in the second contest of the three-game series tonight, with Jim Duffalo (3-0) of the Giants scheduled to oppose Hector (Skinny) Brown (4-6) of the Colts.

Mays, hitting well above .300 since July 1, went from hero to non-hero in a swift change last night. With two down in the ninth inning, he smashed his 28th home run about 430 feet away, providing the Giants a 5-4 lead.

THAT NINTH

Then came the Colt 45's ninth.

Bob Aspromonte singled off Jack Fisher, who had relieved starter Juan Marichal in the eighth. Bob Lillis sacrificed Aspromonte to second. Pinch-hitter Hal Smith struck out, and it was one to go.

Al Spangler singled into center and Mays, though having no chance to nab Aspromonte at the plate, tried anyway. His long toss was intercepted by Orlando Cepeda and relayed to the plate, but Aspromonte was already over with the tying run.

Spankler, meanwhile, hoffed it to second. Fisher, put in a spot, then walked Johnny Temple, and three pitches later Carl Warwick singled to drive home Spangler from second. Fisher now is 6-8.

Mays' home run was his 10th in the last 15 games, and gave him one in each of the team's last four games.

Willis McCovey went 2-for-4 and batted in a run with his 33rd 4-bagger, tops in both leagues. McCovey's 74 runs batted in put him in a third for third in the senior circuit.

JUAN GOES SEVEN

Marichal, bidding for his 18th win, left after the seventh, having given up seven hits and four runs, three of them earned.

Mays' single in the first inning drove in Felipe Alou with the initial Giant run. Jose Pagan tripled in the second and scored on a wild pitch. Jose later pulled a leg muscle running out an infield single in the fourth and will be out from a week to 10 days.

McCovey led off the eighth with his homer, and Mays singled and later scored on Lillis' error. The Giants loaded the bases with none out, but Hal Woodeschick, now 9-6, throttled the rally.

South Marin Pony Stars Fall Before Petaluma In Tourney

The Southern Marin Pony League All-Stars came to the end of the trail last night in Petaluma when they fell 9-3 to the Petaluma All-Stars in the final game of the sectional tournament.

The loss was a frustrating one for two reasons.

The first was that Petaluma was allowed to jump off to an early 7-0 lead with the help of some shoddy Marin fielding. The second was that the winning pitcher was Joe Wong, former Mill Valley Little Leaguer who had played often against Southern Marin starter and loser Brian King.

Petaluma enters the next round of the nation-wide tournament this weekend at Ukith.

Dons Defeat S.F. Team

The Dons of Marin whipped House and Home of San Francisco 5-3 Sunday in an San Francisco AA baseball league game at Novato. Ted Westerhold hurled the victory.

The Dons' batting attack was paced by Danny Abballo, Larry Gerughty, Dave Beswick and Lon Gallagher with two hits apiece. Abballo had two RBIs and Gerughty and Hamish Tyler one each.

Consistent Yankees

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees hold an all-time series edge over every rival in the American League.

Sohner Tree, Post Office Softball Teams Win Tilts

Sohner Tree Service pushed across the winning run in the bottom of the seventh to capture a 3-2 victory over North Bay Flay in a San Rafael Men's "A" Softball League tilt at Albert Park last night.

San Rafael Post Office nabbed a 9-5 verdict over Old Mill—Pro-Kill Control in the "B" League opener.

Sohner's winning run came when Joe Garcia opened the seventh with a single, stole second, moved to third on a wild pitch and slid across the plate ahead of Duane Irving's hurried throw on Earl Ramponi's subsequent infield grounder.

Winning pitcher Jay Leatherwood limited the Flagmen to three hits.

South Marin Pony Stars Fall Before Petaluma In Tourney

The Southern Marin Pony League All-Stars came to the end of the trail last night in Petaluma when they fell 9-3 to the Petaluma All-Stars in the final game of the sectional tournament.

The loss was a frustrating one for two reasons.

The first was that Petaluma was allowed to jump off to an early 7-0 lead with the help of some shoddy Marin fielding. The second was that the winning pitcher was Joe Wong, former Mill Valley Little Leaguer who had played often against Southern Marin starter and loser Brian King.

Petaluma enters the next round of the nation-wide tournament this weekend at Ukith.

Dons Defeat S.F. Team

The Dons of Marin whipped House and Home of San Francisco 5-3 Sunday in an San Francisco AA baseball league game at Novato. Ted Westerhold hurled the victory.

The Dons' batting attack was paced by Danny Abballo, Larry Gerughty, Dave Beswick and Lon Gallagher with two hits apiece. Abballo had two RBIs and Gerughty and Hamish Tyler one each.

Consistent Yankees

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees hold an all-time series edge over every rival in the American League.

Sohner Tree, Post Office Softball Teams Win Tilts

Sohner Tree Service pushed across the winning run in the bottom of the seventh to capture a 3-2 victory over North Bay Flay in a San Rafael Men's "A" Softball League tilt at Albert Park last night.

San Rafael Post Office nabbed a 9-5 verdict over Old Mill —Pro-Kill Control in the "B" League opener.

Sohner's winning run came when Joe Garcia opened the seventh with a single, stole second, moved to third on a wild pitch and slid across the plate ahead of Duane Irving's hurried throw on Earl Ramponi's subsequent infield grounder.

Winning pitcher Jay Leatherwood limited the Flagmen to three hits.

Sinkers, Rusty Anchor, A Broken Gun Barrel Could Be Masterpiece

STEVENS

Instead of casting bait for bass on Sunday, the good wife and I cast our uncritical eyes over the display of gargoyle-ish monstrosities, passing as sculptures, atop the Kaiser Roof Garden. The champagne was plentiful, the brunch pleasing and the sculptures—out of this world—too far out for this writer's prosaic mind. They did, however, engender an inspiring thought. So long as such displays earn the plaudits of the initiates, why doesn't some handy guy with a knack for welding, carpentry, iron work and an illusive imagination — create an epic. Assemble an old tackle box, some rod butts, three-pound sinkers, the rusted fluke of an anchor, the broken prop from an outboard, attach a miscellaney of sinker-releases, hooks, spinners, etc. Then add the broken stock of a rifle, a broken gun barrel, some brass shotgun shells and such. Mix the whole mess in liquid metal and title it "The Sportsman" and win a blue ribbon!

THAT SORT of thing, I imagine, wouldn't interest a person such as Melvin Huber. He was content to win the ship's pool for the largest fish on a recent trip out of Santa Cruz. Melvin boated a 21¾ pound ling cod.

Fishing out of Santa Cruz has taken a real turn for the better, according to the Stagnaros. After several weeks of the doldrums, the past few days have been quite productive. Even salmon trolling improved. Not hot, but an average of a fish per rod.

I have been asked a number of times to write something anent big game hunting in Alaska when it opens and what the prospects are. So—to quote from a recent release: "James W. Brooks, Division of Game, Alaska Department of Fish and Game, forecasts excellent hunting prospects for all big game. Population highs continue for the black, brown, grizzly and polar bears, and also moose, caribou, mountain goats, Dall sheep and walrus. Deer and elk herds have increased even over last year's high figure.

THE SEASON on most big game opens in mid-September.

With the exception of bison, big game may be hunted without any special drawing or permit.

Information on hunting in Alaska may be obtained by writing or phoning the Department of Fish and Game, Subport Building, Juneau, Alaska.

So there you have it. If you wish the forecast on what Canada has to offer, and what prospects are for big game in Canada, drop me a line. Goodbye, and good luck, locally or afield!

The 'Shotgun' Is Junked By Red Hickey

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The "shotgun" formation, once one of the most feared weapons in professional football, is a gone goslin,' coach Red Hickey of the San Francisco Forty Niners said today.

Hickey, trying to put together a winning combination for the 1963 national football league campaign, says he just doesn't have the right talent for the spread formation.

"You need special personnel to fit the shotgun formation," says Red. "And we haven't got that. When Bill Kilmer was hurt and became unavailable for competition this year, then we lost the trigger for our shotgun."

The loss of Kilmer has been a severe blow to the hopes of the Forty Niners this year, but Hickey still is optimistic about the season.

"We are going to have good speed in the backfield," he says. "And most of our fellows reported to camp in very good shape."

Five men have just reported from the all-star game: end Hugh Campbell of Washington State; back Kermit Alexander, UCLA; tackle Charley Sieminski, Penn State; tackle Walter Rock, Maryland, and lineman

Willie Honored

CINCINNATI (AP) — His 13 home runs and 27 runs batted in during July earned Willie McCovey a citation as the National League's Player of the Month.

Burnett Again Takes Stand In Libel Trial

ATLANTA (UPI) — Insurance man George Burnett, whose pencilled notes resulted in a Saturday Evening Post article alleging a rigged football game in the Southeast Conference, will resume testimony today in Wally Butts' 10-million-dollar libel suit against the magazine.

Burnett testified yesterday he overheard former Georgia Athletic Director Butts give away football plays to Alabama coach Paul (Bear) Bryant prior to the game between the schools last September.

Burnett added under questioning that he never said the game was compromised.

"Did you say the game was fixed?" Butts' attorney, Gerald Schroder, asked.

"No," Burnett replied.

"Did you say the game was rigged?"

"No."

Schroder asked Burnett if he had said the game was thrown, corrupt or a sell-out. The insurance man replied "no" to each question.

Burnett's testimony was the highlight of the trial that began yesterday before Federal Judge Lewis R. Morgan.

Speedster Sets Sights Still Higher

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — Craig Breedlove thought today he could go even faster than he did yesterday in his jet-powered car when he set a world record of 407.45 miles per hour.

In fact he powered his car, "Spirit of America," to 428.37 miles per hour on the first run. The second run, back over the same course on the western Utah salt flats, was at a 388.47 m.p.h. rate.

The old mark was 394.196 m.p.h. set on the flats in 1947 by the late Sir John Cobb of England.

Breedlove, a one-time hot rodder from Los Angeles, said he had been after the record ever since he began tinkering with cars when he was 14. That was four years after Cobb set the mark. Breedlove is 26.

Country Club To Battle Old Mill In Softball Opener

The opening game of the fourth annual San Anselmo Invitational Softball Tournament will pit Country Club Bowl against Old Mill-Pro-Kill Pest Control next Tuesday, it was announced yesterday by San Anselmo Recreation Director Frank Quinn.

Other teams competing in the single round-robin tourney include Sohner Tree Service, Two-Rock Army, Fairchild and North Bay Flag.

Single games starting at 6:30 p.m. are scheduled each evening at San Anselmo's Memorial Park. Doubleheaders are slated for Sunday, Aug. 18, and Sunday, Aug. 25. The contests on Aug. 25 conclude the 15-game tournament.

Mantle Ready

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle was ready for limited duty today as the New York Yankees hit the road for a 14-game trip, but the $100,000-a-year slugger is still ailing and still faces the possibility of post-season surgery.

73s Win Gross Honors In Golf

Hank Noble and John Flanagan combined talents to win the low gross division of the Meadow Club Junior Invitational Golf Tournament yesterday with 73. Buzz Beattie and Ray Leach were second with 76.

Randy Patterson and Larry Larson won the low net division with 89-29—60. This beat Craig Johnson and Bob Scheffer's 86-22—64.

Some fine efforts were recorded in the special skills portion of the tournament. Allan Breslin won the hole-in-one contest by dropping his ball a foot and nine inches from the hole, while Mike Butler won the driving contest with a poke of 235 yards.

Artie Carewe and Craig Ballantine tied for the putting championship by covering the nine-hole putting green in 16 shots. Johnson and Scheffer bagged the pitch-'n'-putt contest by dropping three balls from off the green in 15 shots.

Carewe and Breslin tied for first in the Calloway flight for little guys.

Boccabella Continues Heavy Hitting In Professional Ball

John Boccabella continued his fabulous hitting with Pocatello, Ida., but the other Marin baseball pros found the going rougher last week.

John ripped eight hits in 24 chances last week to preserve his .335 average, and raised his slugging percentage (compiled by dividing the number of at bats into the total bases) to an impressive .679. He slugged two home runs for a season's total of 17, and his five runs batted in gave him 56 for the year. Thirty-four of John's 72 hits are extra-base blows.

The other Marinite to hit .300 last week reached it right on the nose. Neil Austinson went three for 10 at Lexington, N.C., to move up 10 points to .212.

At Decatur, Ill., Doug Wilson had an "average" week, which he entered hitting .276 and left with the same mark after going eight for 29—.276. Doug rapped a home run and a double, scored three runs and drove in three.

Ken Anderson and Ron Blum endured the tortures of the damned last week. Anderson garnered only three hits in 23 at bats at Waycross, Ga., and his average fell 19 points to .242. Blum was even more helpless at St. Cloud, Minn., where Northern League pitching held him to one safety in 21 tries. His mark dropped 15 points to .233.

Ron Cole pitched a complete game victory for Modesto last week, as he allowed eight hits, walked three and struck out two. His record was 3-4 after that, but Sunday he ran into a buzz-saw at Bakersfield and dropped a 21-5 slaughter. Needless to say, Ron wasn't around to give up all 21 runs; he was lifted in the second inning, at the end of which Modesto trailed, 6-0.

Nino Geminiani hurled four innings last week for Jamestown, N.Y., and had to be encouraged by the fact that he didn't walk anyone. He gave up five hits and struck out none, but perhaps is working out of the wild streak which has kept his record at 2-4.

Deer Hunting Is Average, Reports Marin Warden

Marin County Fish and Game Warden Al Giddings reported average hunting pressure last weekend. Twenty-five clubs bagged 52 bucks, which he said was not a surprisingly large total.

The Truttman Ranch in Olema felled eight for the top figure. Giddings was happy to report little road hunting.

The Woodacre and Redwood Deer Clubs killed four rattlesnakes in the hills above Woodacre, which are usually well-endowed with this particular species during the summer.

YOUNGSTER BAGS HIS DEER EARLY

Burr Overstreet, 14, went on his first hunting expedition Saturday on the Nicasio ranch of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Kelley, and with his first shot felled a 97-pound deer.

Sunday he went out again and found a way to improve on this achievement. This time his first shot killed a 125-pound deer.

TERRA LINDA SKATER WINS GOLD MEDAL

Nina Howe of Terra Linda earned herself a gold medal Sunday in the junior division of the North American Roller Skating championship in Portland, Ore.

Nina, 15, a sophomore at Terra Linda High School, teamed with a professional for a series of six dances and was judged good enough to receive a gold medal by a board of professionals.

The award is the highest that can be won by a junior roller skater in the U. S. Earlier in the week, Nina teamed with Marc Parker of Sacramento to win the junior dance division over skaters from all over the United States and Canada.

Indian Valley Golf Results

Bud Sparrow taught his wife Bobby who wears the pants in the family Saturday—or at least who wears the golf slacks—when he combined with Mrs. Art Sears to edge Bobby and George Nolan in the Indian Valley Scotch Ball Tourney.

The winners shot 75-15—60 to nip the 79-18½—60½ total of Bobby and George. Bob Brossier and Mrs. Jerry Evans were third with 80-16—64.

Finals Held For S.A. Invitational

The San Anselmo Invitational Baseball Tournament ended Sunday with these results:

Sausalito edged Fairfax 5-4 in the Minor League final behind Larry Dora's three-hit pitching and Gene Gray's home run.

Fairfax won the major league division with a 5-4 triumph over San Anselmo. The losers led in the game twice, but they could not stop Al Watson, who blasted two home runs for all the Fairfax tallies.

Kevin Wilson fanned 13 to pitch Central Marin to a 7-4 victory over Lake County and the title in the Junior Division. Ron Anderson homered for the losers.

New Piza topped Bermuda Palms 6-1 for the Senior division championship.

Tam Swim Club Wins Two Meets

The Tamalpais Swim Club jumped out in front in the Redwood Empire Assn. League last week with victories in its first two meets over the Ann Curtis Swim Club and the San Rafael Swim Club.

The winners had to take the last relay to edge the Curtis club 304-291. Tam's Dennis Boese won three events in the boys 9-10 age group, while Susie Cuneo and Mark Agnew won three apiece for the losers. Pam Kopan, Nancy Behr, Vickie Hoetger and Steve Bush were double winners for the Tam club, while Laurie Morris, Bob Crowell, Jim Allen and Kathy Donovan grabbed two victories apiece for the Curtis team.

The Tam club's win over San Rafael was by a more substantial margin, 316-270.

Single games starting at 6:30 p.m. are scheduled each evening at San Anselmo's Memorial Park. Doubleheaders are slated for Sunday, Aug. 18, and Sunday, Aug. 25. The contests on Aug. 25 conclude the 15-game tournament.

Mantle Ready

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle was ready for limited duty today as the New York Yankees hit the road for a 14-game trip, but the $100,000-a-year slugger is still ailing and still faces the possibility of post-season surgery.

73s Win Gross Honors In Golf

Hank Noble and John Flanagan combined talents to win the low gross division of the Meadow Club Junior Invitational Golf Tournament yesterday with 73. Buzz Beattie and Ray Leach were second with 76.

Randy Patterson and Larry Larson won the low net division with 89-29—60. This beat Craig Johnson and Bob Scheffer's 86-22—64.

Some fine efforts were recorded in the special skills portion of the tournament. Allan Breslin won the hole-in-one contest by dropping his ball a foot and nine inches from the hole, while Mike Butler won the driving contest with a poke of 235 yards.

Artie Carewe and Craig Ballantine tied for the putting championship by covering the nine-hole putting green in 16 shots. Johnson and Scheffer bagged the pitch-'n'-putt contest by dropping three balls from off the green in 15 shots.

Carewe and Breslin tied for first in the Calloway flight for little guys.

Boccabella Continues Heavy Hitting In Professional Ball

John Boccabella continued his fabulous hitting with Pocatello, Ida., but the other Marin baseball pros found the going rougher last week.

John ripped eight hits in 24 chances last week to preserve his .335 average, and raised his slugging percentage (compiled by dividing the number of at bats into the total bases) to an impressive .679. He slugged two home runs for a season's total of 17, and his five runs batted in gave him 56 for the year. Thirty-four of John's 72 hits are extra-base blows.

The other Marinite to hit .300 last week reached it right on the nose. Neil Austinson went three for 10 at Lexington, N.C., to move up 10 points to .212.

At Decatur, Ill., Doug Wilson had an "average" week, which he entered hitting .276 and left with the same mark after going eight for 29—.276. Doug rapped a home run and a double, scored three runs and drove in three.

Ken Anderson and Ron Blum endured the tortures of the damned last week. Anderson garnered only three hits in 23 at bats at Waycross, Ga., and his average fell 19 points to .242. Blum was even more helpless at St. Cloud, Minn., where Northern League pitching held him to one safety in 21 tries. His mark dropped 15 points to .233.

Ron Cole pitched a complete game victory for Modesto last week, as he allowed eight hits, walked three and struck out two. His record was 3-4 after that, but Sunday he ran into a buzz-saw at Bakersfield and dropped a 21-5 slaughter. Needless to say, Ron wasn't around to give up all 21 runs; he was lifted in the second inning, at the end of which Modesto trailed, 6-0.

Nino Geminiani hurled four innings last week for Jamestown, N.Y., and had to be encouraged by the fact that he didn't walk anyone. He gave up five hits and struck out none, but perhaps is working out of the wild streak which has kept his record at 2-4.

TERRA LINDA SKATER WINS GOLD MEDAL

Nina Howe of Terra Linda earned herself a gold medal Sunday in the junior division of the North American Roller Skating championship in Portland, Ore.

Nina, 15, a sophomore at Terra Linda High School, teamed with a professional for a series of six dances and was judged good enough to receive a gold medal by a board of professionals.

The award is the highest that can be won by a junior roller skater in the U. S. Earlier in the week, Nina teamed with Marc Parker of Sacramento to win the junior dance division over skaters from all over the United States and Canada.

Indian Valley Golf Results

Bud Sparrow taught his wife Bobby who wears the pants in the family Saturday—or at least who wears the golf slacks—when he combined with Mrs. Art Sears to edge Bobby and George Nolan in the Indian Valley Scotch Ball Tourney.

The winners shot 75-15—60 to nip the 79-18½—60½ total of Bobby and George. Bob Brossier and Mrs. Jerry Evans were third with 80-16—64.

Deer Hunting Is Average, Reports Marin Warden

Marin County Fish and Game Warden Al Giddings reported average hunting pressure last weekend. Twenty-five clubs bagged 52 bucks, which he said was not a surprisingly large total.

The Truttman Ranch in Olema felled eight for the top figure. Giddings was happy to report little road hunting.

The Woodacre and Redwood Deer Clubs killed four rattlesnakes in the hills above Woodacre, which are usually well-endowed with this particular species during the summer.

YOUNGSTER BAGS HIS DEER EARLY

Burr Overstreet, 14, went on his first hunting expedition Saturday on the Nicasio ranch of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Kelley, and with his first shot felled a 97-pound deer.

Sunday he went out again and found a way to improve on this achievement. This time his first shot killed a 125-pound deer.

Finals Held For S.A. Invitational

The San Anselmo Invitational Baseball Tournament ended Sunday with these results:

Sausalito edged Fairfax 5-4 in the Minor League final behind Larry Dora's three-hit pitching and Gene Gray's home run.

Fairfax won the major league division with a 5-4 triumph over San Anselmo. The losers led in the game twice, but they could not stop Al Watson, who blasted two home runs for all the Fairfax tallies.

Kevin Wilson fanned 13 to pitch Central Marin to a 7-4 victory over Lake County and the title in the Junior Division. Ron Anderson homered for the losers.

New Piza topped Bermuda Palms 6-1 for the Senior division championship.

Pam Kopan, Nancy Behr, Vickie Hoetger and Steve Bush were double winners for the Tam club, while Laurie Morris, Bob Crowell, Jim Allen and Kathy Donovan grabbed two victories apiece for the Curtis team.

Successful In A Man's World

PHOTOGRAPHED IN a situation she frequently finds herself in at her home in Sausalito is stockbroker Elizabeth Carroll (Mrs. James J. Carroll IV). With stock guide and telephone having a cord long enough to reach any room in the house, she is prepared to catch up with work at home. She is the only woman stockbroker among 40 men on the staff of one of the major firms in San Francisco. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

Fourth in a series of articles on Marin's working women.

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Elizabeth Carroll (Mrs. James J. Carroll IV) of Sausalito — stockbroker — is one of those women who have taken up a profession ordinarily followed only by men.

That she is successful is evidenced by the fact that she is the only woman among 40 men on the staff of E. F. Hutton, Inc., and she is the first woman stockbroker the company has had in its 50 years in business in San Francisco.

She holds the further distinction of being one of four women in the world allowed the privilege of being on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange during a trading session. The others were former Queen Marie of Rumania, financial expert Sylvia Porter and singer Kate Smith.

YET MRS. CARROLL is not one of those mathematical automatons whose brain works like the electronic board that has largely replaced the ticker tape in the Hutton office.

She is a gay, breezy person with a hearty laugh and an ultra-feminine interest in hats, clothes and jewelry. She is also a connoisseur of art, living with a number of original paintings, and of foods, having once cooked her way entirely through the "Better Homes and Gardens" cook book.

And she plays Bach at home on the piano for relaxation. She is an active clubwoman, being this year's ways and means chairman for the Sausalito Woman's Club, and is acting president of the Sausalito Library Board as well as program chairman for the University of Chicago Alumni in San Francisco.

She also finds time to be active in the Catholic Social Service and great books discussions, and studies French.

WHAT HAT SHALL she wear today? This is often a debatable question with stockbroker Elizabeth Carroll of Sausalito, who is noted along Montgomery Street for her large collection of extraordinary chapeaux. She says, "Who's up to a decision at 5:30 a.m.?" (when her day begins). So that she will have just the right hat to fit her mood or the occasion she always carries part of her collection in the back seat of her car.

ELIZABETH CARROLL is at her desk in the city by 7 a.m. and often doesn't leave until 6 p.m. Then frequently she must catch up with work at home, where she also does a great deal of entertaining.

How did she happen to become a stockbroker? First, because her husband, who was a stockbroker, died four years ago and it was necessary for her to work. She also chose the field for a philosophical reason.

"I think the stock market is one of the last places the individual can make his own decision," she said. "This is not a romantic idea. I'm a firm believer in free enterprise, and the stock market is one of the last places such a system can operate.

"I had another reason, too," she continued. "I had the right background and had become more or less familiar with the field through association with my husband's work.

"I'M A CLASSIC example of how important it is to know what is going on financially in the family. Every wife ought to be interested in her husband's business."

Mrs. Carroll's "right background" consisted of having a degree in business administration from Washington University in St. Louis and a master's degree in the same field from the University of Chicago.

LIVING LEGEND—

Madame Chiang Kai-Shek Fights On

EDITOR'S NOTE: Madame Chiang, the Vassar-educated Chinese beauty who has become a legend in her lifetime, still lives on the island outpost of Formosa with her husband, the Generalissimo. What is her life like these days? An Associated Press writer visited her recently to make this report.

By DORIS KLEIN

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Mme. Chiang Kai-shek ducks her head, smiles and asks: "Please don't make me sound too stuffy."

MADAME CHIANG

Minutes before, eyes flashing, a long, lacquered fingernail stabbing the air, she snapped her determination to drive the Communists from the China mainland—soon.

Then she insists her visitor put down her pen and try some tea and Chinese cake. "I'm afraid it should be eaten warm."

IT IS THE OLD MAGIC—that mixture of lash and lotus blossom—which makes Mme. Chiang, at 65, an Asian legend, far from retirement.

With her Generalissimo husband, she battled warlords, Japanese invaders and Communists for more than 35 years until the Communists banished their Nationalist forces from the mainland in 1949.

For nearly 13 years, the Generalissimo and Mme. Chiang have reigned on this island outpost "not one third as large as our smallest province."

"I LIVED OUT of a suitcase on the mainland," says Mme. Chiang. "Here, I stay in one place." But the suitcase is packed for the return trip.

A fire blazes in the living room of Scholar's Grove, the Chiangs' small villa set beside a botanical garden in Taipei. The flames glint off the mother-of-pearl inlaid rosewood furniture, antiques which the Generalissimo shipped out before the Communists reached their home in Shanghai. Over the fireplace hangs a painting by Mme. Chiang, a new-found hobby.

But it isn't painting Mme. Chiang wants to talk about.

CHAIN-SMOKING mentholated cigarettes, she speaks what is on her mind:

"Temporary failure does not mean eventual defeat. One must be ready for the next opportunity.

"China is ready now for our return to the mainland . . .

"The Communists themselves have admitted more cases of subversion by the people than ever before. And there has been the famine. Hatred and famine and inhumanity are driving more people from the Communist mainland than ever before.

"Even some of the Communist cadres are breaking up. They feel they have been deceived."

Still, Mme. Chiang admits, there have been no large scale revolts against the Communists.

"They have nothing to fight with," she says. "The Communists have taken away even brass sinks and metal work on windows and doors. They have nothing left but wooden clubs and bamboo sticks . . .

"The United States must realize that this is an internal Chinese problem.

"Russia won't come to the aid of the Chinese Communists. With the present conflict between (Chinese Communist leader) Mao (Tze-tung) and Khrushchev, Mao is afraid of Khrushchev. He feels Khrushchev is a deviationist.

"I don't think that there would be a single Russian soldier—and no Russian aid—provided the fighting does not extend to the areas adjacent to Russia.

"We will have to establish ourselves in certain portions of the country as we go along. And drive the Communists back at the same time."

She puts down her cigarette. The diamond circlets on her black brocade cheong san glint in the firelight.

She looks 20 years younger.

WHEN THE GENERALISSIMO and his troops evacuated to Formosa, Mme. Chiang was in the United States. She returned to join her husband.

Her role today:

"I still help my husband.

"I speak my mind, but not publicly. I do not think it is right to speak my mind unless in doing so it helps a cause."

Despite the drums of war, life is quieter on Formosa.

Mme. Chiang took up painting five years ago.

Childless in her 35-year-old marriage, she is active in the Hua Hsing orphanage. Her Chinese Women's Anti-aggression League started it for children whose parents were killed when the Nationalists evacuated the Tachen Islands in 1955 as the Communists closed in.

"SHE'S EVEN taken up carpentry," says an acquaintance who was present when Adm. Harley Smoot, then commander of U.S. forces on Formosa, gave Mme. Chiang weekly instructions.

"She made things of rosewood. She was a terrific pupil."

The most famous of the three daughters of Methodist missionary-revolutionary Charles Jones Soong remains deeply devout. Mme. Chiang and her husband have their own chapel on the grounds of their house in Taipei.

On hot summer days they retreat to a Japanese-style house among the Embassy Row homes that look down on the rice paddy terraces of Yangmingshan, a half-hour's drive from the capital.

She never speaks of her middle sister, Chingling, widow of China's revered revolutionary leader Dr. Sun Yat-sen. Chingling, a member of the Communist Party, lives in Peiping.

The eldest sister, Mme. H. H. Kung, lives near New York City on Long Island. Brother bank financier T. V. Soong lives in Berkeley, Calif. Her younger brother, T. A. Soong, is chairman of the board of the Bank of Canton in San Francisco.

REFLECTING OVER the years, Mme. Chiang says:

"I think I have done something for the women of China. I was the first woman in parliament. I served two terms before I decided not to run again. I saw to it that one-tenth of the parliament were women.

"With the Anti-aggression League, we are trying to raise the standard of living, help dependents of the troops. Our women are taking a very active part.

"Women should be more active. They don't have the same motives as men. They are not anxious to establish reputations or themselves in political careers. They just do what needs to be done."

SHE LEADS MEN . . . Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai-Shek precede military officers down steps of Presidential Building.

"No need to be jealous—I'll bet she couldn't hold a candle to you at things like rug beating, floor scrubbing or car washing."

Mrs. June Tanforan Is Bride

The Church of the Wayfarer at Carmel was the setting for the wedding yesterday of Mrs. June Tanforan of San Anselmo and Ralph Brisbin of San Rafael.

Frank Tanforan, eldest son of the bride, gave his mother in marriage, and she was attended by her daughter, Mrs. Patricia Martineau. Best man was the bridegroom's son-in-law, Bill Joffee. A reception was held at The Spindrift in Monterey following the ceremony. For her wedding the bride wore beige silk sheath dress with matching jacket. Patricia wore an aqua silk sheath dress.

The new Mrs. Brisbin is the daughter of Mrs. Julius Olsen of San Anselmo. A legal secretary with the firm of Buresh, Smith, Truett and Durham, she has resigned her position and will reside in San Rafael with her husband, who has also recently retired from his position as supervisor of the North Bay District of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

The newlyweds are sailing on the Matsonia for Hawaii and expect to return early in September.

Wonderful Containers

Sea shells make wonderful containers for summer flowers. If you are planning a trip to the seashore, collect some of the more attractive shells, suggests the Society of American Florists. Fill them with water to make sure they won't leak. Seal any holes with paraffin. Then insert into each shell a pre-saturated foam flower holder cut a little smaller than the shell, insert flower stems in the holder, and add water.

Clean Shades

Clean dirty window shades with a rough flannel cloth dipped in flour.

When baby is young about the only discipline you can impose is to establish regular sleeping and eating patterns. But when baby reaches the year-old stage you can begin to regulate his behavior to keep him from getting out of hand. But remember to make sure that your tyke is capable of understanding what you want and why you want it. Remember, too, that good behavior is best taught by example. A toddler learns faster by imitation than by rules he doesn't understand.

Dinner delights for hungry sprites. Gerber Junior High Meat Dinners offer something extra-special in the way of flavor-appeal. First, they have 3 times as much savory, succulent meat as regular vegetable-meat combinations. Second, selected vegetables and sprightly seasoning are deftly added for unusual flavor interest. Good sources of protein and vitamin-A value, these "casserole" dishes provide hearty nourishment in five wonderful ways.

Table talk. Toddler table manners should not be stressed until your child is reasonably skillful at handling his spoon. It's hard enough to make a spoon behave without the burden of learning manners at the same time.

'TRES CUITE'

Mill Valley Club Plans September French Classes

Typical of the way in which Mill Valley's Outdoor Art Club plans its cultural courses to be of maximum usefulness are the Franch classes conducted by Mme. Pierre R. Dupart.

They are especially planned to make trips abroad, especially to France, easier and more enjoyable by providing a practical conversational vocabulary.

STUDENTS will be able to inquire directions of a gendarme and understand his answers. They will be prepared to tell a taxi driver he has circled the theater three times and that they would like to arrive for the curtain. For shopping they will be able to translate yards into meters and, if necessary, to bargin with as good a sense of humor as any European.

IF THEY WISH a steak rare, they will request it "a vianda bleue, if medium rare, "a point," and if well done, "Tres Cuite."

Mme. Dupart, a native of Bordeaux, has been a resident of San Francisco for three years. During this time she has been the French teacher in the extracurricular program at Park School in Mill Valley. A graduate of the University of Bordeaux with major in English, she studied in many countries as a result of her interest in languages.

She learned Spanish during a two-year residence in Palma, Portuguese during a comparable time in Lisbon. In Heidelberg, Germany, she conducted lessons in French. This summer she is polishing her Spanish in Mexico.

REGISTRATION for French classes will be held at the Outdoor Art Clubhouse on Sept. 11, between 10 a.m. and noon. Beginning French class meets on Thursdays from 10 a.m. to noon. Intermediate class is held on Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to noon and the advanced class on Wednesdays from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

From the beginning class on, French is always spoken. Classes are kept small to permit individual attention to pronunciation. Anyone interested in joining the French classes may contact Mrs. Paul W. Clark of 36 Del Casa Way, Mill Valley.

CULTURAL classes offered by the Outdoor Art Club are open to non-members.

Information regarding classes in Spanish may be obtained from Mrs. John B. Wyand of 394 Magee Avenue, Mill Valley, and Mrs. Alan M. Shearer of 100 E. Manor Drive, Mill Valley, may be called for information about the creative writing classes conducted by Mill Valley author Nathan Asch.

Those desiring information about the literary and art classes may call Mrs. William MacLane of 257 Throckmorton Avenue, cultural arts chairman of the Outdoor Art Club.

Woman Stockbroker Connoisseur Of Art

Before she met her husband at a great books group she had her own public relations business in San Francisco.

Sitting at her desk in the office, with all the advantages of electronic devices to help serve her clients like a modern genie of the lamp, Mrs. Carroll demonstrated the magic of the newest one. Operated something like a comptometer, it can produce instantaneously an up-to-the minute price history of any stock.

Then after explaining the mysteries of the Dow Jones averages and bull and bear markets, she went on to emphasize how important it is for anyone to study the market before investing.

"ANYONE WHO INVESTS without a thorough understanding of what he is doing might as well throw the money off the bridge," she warned.

"It's important to know the rules. It's like in cooking—you learn the rules, and then with this background you learn how to deviate.

"There are many ways to approach the selection of a security, but the two main ones are the fundamental approach — consisting of the study of about 30 factors, such as its management, earnings, new products, developments and the like — and the technical approach. The latter consists of studying what kind of chart or graph pattern a particular stock's price action has followed."

Here Mrs. Carroll paused to explain in a number of graphs a pattern called "a head and shoulders," useful in determining when to buy a certain stock or sell it.

"The approach used depends on the type of investor," she said. "In fact, in his field you have to think of each individual and his needs. A portfolio of investments should be designed individually for the person, just like a suit.

"THE BEST GENERAL advice I can give is first know what you want out of an investment program — second know your broker — and third know the background of the company in which you are going to invest."

At home Mrs. Carroll relaxes by playing Bach on an old square piano that came around the Horn in the days of the gold rush. This is in keeping with the history of her home, one of the oldest houses in Sausalito.

"It's known as the Pistolazzi house for the original owners," she said. It's known as one of the five or six that survived the old town fire. We even found square nails in it when we remodeled eight years ago, and they date back about 75 years."

ELIZABETH CARROLL'S hats would make a story in themselves.

"I'm so tall," she explained," that I have to wear plain clothes — so hats are my release. I like ones that no one else will wear, mostly angular ones because my face is round," said the energetic broker who always carries a selection in the back seat of her car.

Common Sense Attitude Found A 'Must' For Weight Control

Last month the University of California presented a one day seminar on weight control for professional nutrition workers. It highlighted the fact that there is still much to be learned about this important problem and that no sure-cure has yet been found.

However the best advice the panel of experts had to offer was still concerned with a well motivated patient and a common sense approach to a well rounded diet, said Virginia Porter, Marin County home advisor. Dr. Albert Weinstein of the Tennessee Medical Assn. says the main factor in successful weight reduction is the patient's own enthusiasm about losing weight and willingness to fight discomfort and temptation and stick to a rigid program.

For such well motivated patients, Dr. Weinstein proposed the following "ten commandments for weight control":

1. Retain the basic foods which supply the necessary proteins and vitamins.

2. Eliminate unnecessary fats and sweets.

3. Use judgment in the preparation of foods, e.g., mushrooms (virtually no calories) to decorate meat; strawberries or cantaloupes to make a dessert look good.

4. Don't skip meals. Overhunger is followed by over-eating.

5. Slice foods thinly. An ounce of sliced beef looks and tastes like a lot more than a one-slice ounce.

6. Eat slowly.

8. Use a smaller than average plate. Psychologically, the meal looks larger.

9. Include food of high satiety value.

10. Dieting may be forever. As one grows older, caloric demands decrease. Re-educate your eating habits.

Eating With Fingers Can Be Done In Best Of Taste

Is it ever proper to eat with your fingers? The etiquette experts say "yes."

Even at formal dinners, "finger-eating" is the well-mannered way for certain foods. Artichokes are properly eaten with the fingers down to the artichoke "heart," which is in the fork category. Asparagus, when not covered with sauce, may be picked up with the fingers in the best of style.

THERE'S NO NEED to hesitate to serve guests such dishes as fried chicken or corn on the cob because they are difficult to eat with knives and forks. Lead the way by picking up the food as a cue to your guests.

At "sit-down" dinners, the thoughtful hostess provides two large table napkins at each place for wiping fingers. If you are serving buffet style, or at informal meals, place table-server boxes of napkins on the table so dinner guests can help themselves to extras.

Here are some additional socially-correct finger foods:

BACON: If bacon is crisp, it may be eaten with the fingers. But if you prefer bacon less than crumble-dry, a knife and fork are required.

Cake: Tiny cakes, such as petits fours, should be eaten with the fingers. Pound cake may be broken into bite-size pieces and also eaten with the fingers. Sticky cake or a larger serving require a fork.

CHICKEN: Geography has some effect on chicken manners. According to the experts, fried or broiled chicken may be picked up and eaten with the fingers everywhere but in New York.

'TRES CUITE'

Mill Valley Club Plans September French Classes

Typical of the way in which Mill Valley's Outdoor Art Club plans its cultural courses to be of maximum usefulness are the Franch classes conducted by Mme. Pierre R. Dupart.

They are especially planned to make trips abroad, especially to France, easier and more enjoyable by providing a practical conversational vocabulary.

STUDENTS will be able to inquire directions of a gendarme and understand his answers. They will be prepared to tell a taxi driver he has circled the theater three times and that they would like to arrive for the curtain. For shopping they will be able to translate yards into meters and, if necessary, to bargin with as good a sense of humor as any European.

IF THEY WISH a steak rare, they will request it "a vianda bleue, if medium rare, "a point," and if well done, "Tres Cuite."

Mme. Dupart, a native of Bordeaux, has been a resident of San Francisco for three years. During this time she has been the French teacher in the extracurricular program at Park School in Mill Valley. In the hand shown today there is a great difference in strength between South's spades and his hearts. If South had to choose a trump suit he would surely pick hearts.

FORUNATE

Fortunately for him, South does not have to make the choice alone. North has a decided preference for spades because he had three spades and only two hearts.

When South repeats the hearts to suggest that the suit is much better, North insists on spades.

North's insistence is well founded since South can make cannot make four hearts unless the opponents roll over and play dead.

PLAY AT SPADES

At spades, South wins the first trick with the ace of diamonds and immediately leads his singleton club to try a finesse with dummy's queen.

This risk must be taken since otherwise South must lose a diamond and three trumps.

The finesse wins, and declarer immediately cashes the ace of clubs to get rid of his losing diamond. Now he leads a trump, ruffs the diamond return, and leads another trump.

OPPONENTS

The opponents win and lead another diamond to make declarer ruff again. Declarer cannot afford to lead his last trump. Instead, he leads his good hearts, allowing West to ruff in at will. West can take his ace of trumps but nothing else.

South cannot make four hearts even if the six missing trumps break 3-3. He wins the diamond opening, takes the club finesse to get rid of a diamond, and gives up a spade.

The opponents make him ruff each time he gives up a spade, and South eventually runs out of trumps.

Federal Funds Will Further Marin Recreation Program

Frequently we hear it said in Marin that "federal money comes out of our pockets, after all." It's a good thing to bear in mind, but least pertinent in its application to recreational facilities attractive to and used by people from throughout the United States.

True, if we get federal money to help out on such a worthy project as the recent deal pertaining to the Tiburon wildflower park below Old St. Hilary's Church, our taxes went into this grant. But it's a microscopic part proportionally because federal taxes are drawn from the whole country.

On the other hand no one can quarrel with the point that if Marin County increasingly takes steps—as it decidedly should—to retain for public use some of its many lovely scenic and frequently historic areas, the people of this county shouldn't be forced to foot the whole bill. In fact they cannot pay for what ought to be done as rapidly as possible.

There now seems to be general agreement that it was a foresighted thing that the position of parks and recreation director was created. A very good man was found for the job in the person of able, earnest and enthusiastic Kelvin J. Nelson. Marin foots the bill for Nelson. But it's welcome news that federal participation in capital outlay for recreational spaces, now 20 or 30 per cent, may soon be boosted to 50 per cent.

Along with this it is up to us to provide Marin County's Parks and Recreation Commission, which often has cried out in the wilderness without even a present and articulate spokesman in evidence, with a decent-sized acquisition fund for new purchases as opportunity offers. Too long this has been an orphan child, easy to shut out in the cold.

Nelson has tackled the compilation of a detailed master recreation plan for the entire county, updating from one of 1943 when Bill Fusselman alone of today's board was serving. He will have help from the planning department but nonetheless he will have to hustle to meet a deadline of next June. Hustle is one of his specialties and we are confident he'll make it.

Time presses. This county simply can't miss the boat in this matter of due consideration of recreation needs. There are tragic things to be seen in other parts of the United States where the public has practically lost all chance to enjoy open areas and waterfronts formerly things of inestimable value.

There is no use storming at bulldozers and subdividers in futile annoyance. Property development has to go on to care for the private needs of those who live in Marin. But it is up to us to keep matters under control, and by wise planning and purchasing to care for public as well as private requirements.

What we must do is map things out judicially, at the same time being ready to act for the public need when the moment arrives. This is a program neither empty nor impossible. We now have some of the tools and we must provide others, including money in which the federal government will take much of the burden.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By LOREN MacARTHUR

My Goodness, How Things Bustle Up In That Thriving Novato!

I ALMOST got lost on Highway 101 to Novato when I drove out two weeks ago to begin my sojourn replacing vacationing I-J reporter Terry Newell.

Since my last visit, construction crews had leveled two sizeable hills and were busily blasting away at a third.

I suspect that somewhere in the background lurks a modern-day madman. His ultimate goal, of course, is to level the entire United States and encase it in one massive concrete highway, finally solving the commuter problem.

IN NOVATO, residents point with pride to the fact that a cool 1.5 million dollars in building permits was issued during the month of May alone, and most of that for houses and apartments.

They're also talking about that subdivision up in Novato Hills that's stood unsold for over half a year. Prospective buyers have evidently observed that wood panels under the windows are already splitting because of the shoddy way the houses were built.

Over at Hamilton Air Force Base two bright-eyed young Girl Scouts, both 10, have edged out the Boy Scouts in the good deed department. DeEtte Smith, daughter of T/Sgt. and Mrs. Charles T. Smith, and Debra Davidson, daughter of Senior M/Sgt. and Mrs. Leslie Davidson, mowed and watered the grass and weeded the flower beds of two homes on the base waiting new occupants. Badges will be passed out later.

AND, IF you're the sort who favors long hikes into the wild hills above Novato, Richard S. Hogan of Sebastopol offers a point of information.

If you see strange men pounding metal stakes into the hills, don't expect another new subdivision. Hogan's Sebastopol Mapping Co. is making a fancy new topographical map of Novato, and they're busy right now placing permanent marking stakes in the area. The job will go on for two months.

The Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce, noted chiefly for its sponsorship of Western Weekend, is evidently going highbrow. Representatives will ask the city council to form a citizen's committee for a new library building.

"The Novato library is pitiful," said one member. "We have 8,000 books when we should have 60,000 for a town our size. We have 12 chairs when we should have 100."

THERE'S PROOF out here this week of the old saw about work never made a dull boy of Jack yet.

Phyllis Parsons, pretty Novato High School student who recently appeared in the Summer School Theater production of "The Young and Fair," got the gift of a young lifetime a few days ago when she found a note in her car instructing her to look under the car hood.

She did, and there was a stack of elegantly done black and pink calling cards stating simply:

PHYLLIS PARSONS
Actress

Tim Barlow, the imaginative young man who did them, has obviously discovered more than one advantage to a summer job. He just happens to be working for his dad, Les Barlow, owner of Novato's Sparrow Printing Co.

Of course, the whole scene might have taken on a (Tom) Swiftian touch.

"Take these cards," he said pressingly.

"My goodness," she replied theatrically.

"I insist," he said inkily. "They have my print on them."

A Film Teaching Patriotism

Editor, Independent-Journal:

May I, through the columns of your valuable paper, recommend to the fathers and mothers of Marin County not to miss the opportunity of taking their children to see "PT Boat 109."

So many parents, in their earnest wish to provide all the material things for their children, forget to inculcate into their minds the necessity for unselfishness and devotion to country and duty, and the proper respect to our glorious flag.

It is not just because it depicts President John F. Kennedy and his gallant band of men. There have been hundreds of thousands of Americans and there still are, who in the words of our president: "Are not just seeking to see what their country can give them but what they can give to their country."

It is because a picture can tell more than 10,000 words and will help those who do not find time to teach these principles to their children an easy and pleasant way of bringing them to their attention.

Marin Work In Psychiatry

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Recently, in both the Independent-Journal and on the local radio, comments have been made to the effect that there were no outpatient psychiatric facilities in Marin County. I wish to take issue with the statements, and to some extent take issue with the conclusion drawn therefrom, that the need is desperate.

There is a psychiatric outpatient facility in Marin County which has been in operation since early 1959. Originally designed to care for welfare patients in need of psychiatric outpatient care, it has grown to the point of accepting some patients for treatment who are unable to pay the private practice fees. Eligibility for the program depends greatly on treatability.

Another important factor is the situation in which the individual is temporarily crippled financially as well as emotionally. Thus the policy has been to encourage a quick return to emotional stability, financial recovery and follow-up care on a private basis.

The program is expanding gradually with the liberalization of policies and the increasing experience of the administrative staff. It doesn't, however, meet all the outpatient mental health needs in the community. For example, the psychiatrists who see these patients do so for less than the usual rate and are doing so as a public service. The period of treatment is oriented toward crisis solving and the term of treatment is apt to be quite short, three or six months.

Rehabilitation services are not included. Group therapy is available on a very limited basis. Long-term treatment is needed for many patients. Consultation to schools, public and private agencies is markedly in short supply. And of course, public inpatient treatment facilities are not available.

My letter is intended to correct the impression that nothing has been done and that everything remains ahead of us, for obvious reasons a dangerous conclusion.

Something has been done. A small outpatient facility is growing. It is not enough and will not ever meet the total outpatient mental health needs of the county, not only for the reasons I have mentioned, but because of the explosive growth rate in the county.

I strongly support the development of further outpatient facilities, suggesting that we are not keeping up with the growing need.

Wants Pensioners' Taxes 'Forgiven'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

There has been much concern in Fairfax over the defeat of a proposed increase in taxes to cover the growing needs of the school program, and more recently over a proposed bond issue.

There is a solution, if those concerned care to work at it!

Bonds like taxes do cost money. And of those opposed to an increase in taxes, the most will be pensioners, flocking to the polls to protect a limited income.

Many of these people have sent two and three generations of children to school on taxes they have already paid!

Now, if taxes for pensioners were reduced or forgiven altogether, I am sure the balance of votes in favor of bonds or an increase in taxes would outweigh those opposed to the increases. Who will take it from here?

WASHING DISHES TOO MUCH FOR HIM

A boy's aversion to washing dishes caused a lot of people considerable trouble not long ago in Michigan.

When the 12-year-old youngster was reported missing from his home, police organized a search party of 25 volunteers who spent most of the night combing the woods for him.

To everyone's surprise, the boy returned home under his own steam at 5 a. m., after dodging the searchers for 7 hours. When asked why he had run away, he replied: "It was my turn to wash the dishes."

People often spend more time and effort trying to dodge work than they would by cheerfully facing up to their responsibilities.

God blesses those who eagerly and generously tackle their rightful tasks instead of running away from them.

VACATIONS CAN BE BRUTAL

Casualties Rise In Summer Season, A Result Of All That Good Time

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — In summer the average business office becomes a kind of refuge for the walking wounded.

People go gladly to work then because it is the only place they know where they can enjoy air - conditioned safety—and escape the dangers of home and leisure.

Weekends are the worst of all. The results show up on Monday, when most swivel chairs are unmanned because their usual occupants throng the company doctor's office.

HERE ARE a few typical summer tales of woe:

"Doc," says the personnel manager, handing him a small package, "I dozed while cutting the grass and fell off my power mower, and the darned thing ran over me, from head to foot.

"I think my hair will grow back all right, but what about my right big toe? Do you think it's too late to sew it back on?"

THE OFFICE BOY walks in like a bowlegged cowboy.

"Spent the weekend racing my motor bike," he tells the medic.

"What's good for saddle sores?"

Sally Primrose, the secretary, went on a picnic—and now she has red - rimmed, weeping eyes and can't stop sneezing.

"All I did—kerchoo!!!—was to bend down and smell a wildflower," she explains, "and now I've got—kerchoo!!! —this terrible attack of hay fever. What can you do for me?"

"GESUNDHEIT!" says the doctor helpfully.

The line of sufferers snaps to attention as the boss, shamefaced, enters with a heavily bandaged right hand. Their ears go up as they hear him bark behind the doctor's closed door:

"I hit the ball off the third tee, and it landed in the rough. Just between us, Doc, I reached down to toss it to a better lie — we were playing for two bucks a hole — and I guess that's when I picked up this poison ivy.

"But don't let those jerks outside know what happened or I'll never hear the last of it."

Do you gamble? If you don't, you're in a minority. It is estimated that up to 120 million Americans indulge with a fair degree of regularity in some form of betting—on everything from baseball to bingo.

State G.O.P. Chiefs Believe Sacramento Solidified Party

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — At long last, the legislature has concluded its business insofar as the special session for 1963 is concerned, and adjourned sine die.

It accomplished the major portion of the items in the call put out by Gov. Edmund G. Brown shortly after adjournment of the regular session July 26, when it handed the governor a stripped-down budget for the 1963-64 fiscal year.

Governor Brown called for augmentations to what he called an inadequate amount of money to operate the state for the current fiscal year. He received most of the augmentations.

In the final days of the special session, a "knock-down, drag-out" battle between the Republican and Democratic parties started, which caused adjournment with both sides embittered. The battle, however, was characterized by Republican leaders as just what the party needed to solidify its objectives in the 1964 election campaigns.

"THE PARTY," said Assemblyman Don Mulford (R-Oakland), "will make the biggest drive in the history of the state to seat Republicans for the 1965 legislative session."

A meeting of the state central committee is slated for San Francisco Sept. 22, he said, to which all GOP leaders have been invited. Mulford said the party plans to prepare for the drive at this meeting.

The battle started in full swing when Republicans refused to vote on the budget bill conference report until they had seen what was proposed for education, contained in another bill also in conference.

Speaker Jesse M. Unruh (D-Los Angeles), variously termed the "big daddy" of the Democratic party and the "boss" of California politics, threw the house in a deadlock with a call, which he kept on for 26½ hours.

It was broken, however, only when Republicans said they learned of the material in the education measures conference report, and were ready to vote on the budget.

THE BUDGET passed, but the education bill remained in committee. Meanwhile, the Democrats introduced a resolution which gave the party the authority to have all chairmanships and all vice-chairmanships of standing committee. This displaced four Republican chairmen and seven vice-chairmen when it was passed by the Democratic majority.

On Friday, the education bill was brought out of committee, and passed with but seven votes in opposition.

Meanwhile, the state senate had completed its work, and adopted a resolution for adjournment at noon Friday. The senators started for home, and the assembly was still working. However, the assembly stopped the clock and at Speaker Unruh's urging, adopted the education conference report, finishing its work shortly after the senate.

THE EDUCATION bill contained 25 million dollars augmented funds for this fiscal year and the same amount for next year. However, it was attacked by educators as being insufficient to meet the needs of education. The governor had requested 40 million dollars for this year alone, and 60 million dollars next year.

The bill was passed without the county-wide equalization provisions, favored by the governor and by the assembly.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By LOREN MacARTHUR

My Goodness, How Things Bustle Up In That Thriving Novato!

I ALMOST got lost on Highway 101 to Novato when I drove out two weeks ago to begin my sojourn replacing vacationing I-J reporter Terry Newell.

Since my last visit, construction crews had leveled two sizeable hills and were busily blasting away at a third.

I suspect that somewhere in the background lurks a modern-day madman. His ultimate goal, of course, is to level the entire United States and encase it in one massive concrete highway, finally solving the commuter problem.

IN NOVATO, residents point with pride to the fact that a cool 1.5 million dollars in building permits was issued during the month of May alone, and most of that for houses and apartments.

They're also talking about that subdivision up in Novato Hills that's stood unsold for over half a year. Prospective buyers have evidently observed that wood panels under the windows are already splitting because of the shoddy way the houses were built.

Over at Hamilton Air Force Base two bright-eyed young Girl Scouts, both 10, have edged out the Boy Scouts in the good deed department. DeEtte Smith, daughter of T/Sgt. and Mrs. Charles T. Smith, and Debra Davidson, daughter of Senior M/Sgt. and Mrs. Leslie Davidson, mowed and watered the grass and weeded the flower beds of two homes on the base waiting new occupants. Badges will be passed out later.

AND, IF you're the sort who favors long hikes into the wild hills above Novato, Richard S. Hogan of Sebastopol offers a point of information.

If you see strange men pounding metal stakes into the hills, don't expect another new subdivision. Hogan's Sebastopol Mapping Co. is making a fancy new topographical map of Novato, and they're busy right now placing permanent marking stakes in the area. The job will go on for two months.

The Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce, noted chiefly for its sponsorship of Western Weekend, is evidently going highbrow. Representatives will ask the city council to form a citizen's committee for a new library building.

"The Novato library is pitiful," said one member. "We have 8,000 books when we should have 60,000 for a town our size. We have 12 chairs when we should have 100."

THERE'S PROOF out here this week of the old saw about work never made a dull boy of Jack yet.

Phyllis Parsons, pretty Novato High School student who recently appeared in the Summer School Theater production of "The Young and Fair," got the gift of a young lifetime a few days ago when she found a note in her car instructing her to look under the car hood.

She did, and there was a stack of elegantly done black and pink calling cards stating simply:

PHYLLIS PARSONS
Actress

Tim Barlow, the imaginative young man who did them, has obviously discovered more than one advantage to a summer job. He just happens to be working for his dad, Les Barlow, owner of Novato's Sparrow Printing Co.

Of course, the whole scene might have taken on a (Tom) Swiftian touch.

"Take these cards," he said pressingly.

"My goodness," she replied theatrically.

"I insist," he said inkily. "They have my print on them."

HENRY MacARTHUR

State G.O.P. Chiefs Believe Sacramento Solidified Party

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — At long last, the legislature has concluded its business insofar as the special session for 1963 is concerned, and adjourned sine die.

It accomplished the major portion of the items in the call put out by Gov. Edmund G. Brown shortly after adjournment of the regular session July 26, when it handed the governor a stripped-down budget for the 1963-64 fiscal year.

Governor Brown called for augmentations to what he called an inadequate amount of money to operate the state for the current fiscal year. He received most of the augmentations.

In the final days of the special session, a "knock-down, drag-out" battle between the Republican and Democratic parties started, which caused adjournment with both sides embittered. The battle, however, was characterized by Republican leaders as just what the party needed to solidify its objectives in the 1964 election campaigns.

"THE PARTY," said Assemblyman Don Mulford (R-Oakland), "will make the biggest drive in the history of the state to seat Republicans for the 1965 legislative session."

A meeting of the state central committee is slated for San Francisco Sept. 22, he said, to which all GOP leaders have been invited. Mulford said the party plans to prepare for the drive at this meeting.

The battle started in full swing when Republicans refused to vote on the budget bill conference report until they had seen what was proposed for education, contained in another bill also in conference.

Speaker Jesse M. Unruh (D-Los Angeles), variously termed the "big daddy" of the Democratic party and the "boss" of California politics, threw the house in a deadlock with a call, which he kept on for 26½ hours.

It was broken, however, only when Republicans said they learned of the material in the education measures conference report, and were ready to vote on the budget.

THE BUDGET passed, but the education bill remained in committee. Meanwhile, the Democrats introduced a resolution which gave the party the authority to have all chairmanships and all vice-chairmanships of standing committee. This displaced four Republican chairmen and seven vice-chairmen when it was passed by the Democratic majority.

On Friday, the education bill was brought out of committee, and passed with but seven votes in opposition.

Meanwhile, the state senate had completed its work, and adopted a resolution for adjournment at noon Friday. The senators started for home, and the assembly was still working. However, the assembly stopped the clock and at Speaker Unruh's urging, adopted the education conference report, finishing its work shortly after the senate.

THE EDUCATION bill contained 25 million dollars augmented funds for this fiscal year and the same amount for next year. However, it was attacked by educators as being insufficient to meet the needs of education. The governor had requested 40 million dollars for this year alone, and 60 million dollars next year.

The bill was passed without the county-wide equalization provisions, favored by the governor and by the assembly.

Chicken Feed Of Future Held Important

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dr. George E. Cox believes it may ultimately be necessary for human health to keep chickens and cows well-dozed with cholesterol-lowering drugs in order to reduce the cholesterol content of eggs and milk.

He assumed people are unbreakably devoted to eggs and milk. He also was assuming excessive cholesterol in the human blood stream is largely responsible for artery-hardening and no safe and reliable drugs will be developed for people to take to minimize their cholesterol.

Cox and his associates at the University of Illinois School of Medicine, Chicago, were trying to make something of current scientific cholesterol confusion. Some scientists blame excessive human blood cholesterol on high cholesterol eating.

But other scientists think cholesterol in the human diet is relatively unimportant. They rely on the chemical cleverness of the human liver. It manufactures cholesterol quite on its own. These scientists suggest that when dietary cholesterol is high, the liver's cholesterol production is low, and when dietary cholesterol is low liver production is high.

Therefore, the amount of cholesterol in one's diet isn't governing, they reason; the blood cholesterol level will be approximately the same regardless of diet and if medical science is ever going to deal effectively with excessive blood cholesterol, it must find the real cause.

It can't be, they argued, because its capacity for manufacturing cholesterol is relatively slight at best. In human body chemistry, cholesterol is manufactured by all the tissues—it is an essential factor in metabolism. None of these many production centers shut down because dietary cholesterol is high, they reasoned.

So it must follow that cholesterol in food is an addition to an unchanging natural supply and if excessive cholesterol blood levels are to be brought down, the cholesterol has to be subtracted from the diet.

That was why Cox suggested reducing the cholesterol in milk and eggs by giving drugs to cows and chickens.

In their technical report to an organ of the American Medical Assn., Cox and his associates said the scientific evidence supporting their downgrading of the human liver as a cholesterol producer "is admittedly meager."

But, they added, "it is not nearly as meager as the evidence supporting some alternate hypotheses that are already widely accepted as proven."

The hypotheses they referred to were those which minimize the importance of dietary cholesterol in high blood cholesterol levels and eventually in artery-hardening.

Swampland Is Giving Way To Space Age Center

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Bulldozers, piledrivers, dredges and other machines are wresting control of great areas of swampland from snake and alligator as the United States builds the huge spaceport from which astronauts will rocket toward the moon and planets.

Most of the work is concentrated on Merritt Island adjacent to Cape Canaveral, where the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is acquiring 87,000 acres on which to erect facilities of almost incredible dimension.

There also is furious construction activity on Cape Canaveral's original 15,000-acre plot as launching equipment and pads are readied for the two-man Project Gemini space flights slated to start next year and for early tests of the Apollo moonship and other space vehicles.

More than 5,000 construction workers are on the job. In 12 months there will be about 9,000. In the next three years, 1.7 billion dollars will be spent on building work.

The space agency is paying an estimated 55 million dollars for the land on Merritt Island and on a thin strip offshore territory north of the present cape boundaries. Merritt Island lies west and northwest of the Cape.

About 400 homeowners are being displaced by the acquisition, most of which is swamp, woodland and orange groves.

The dominating feature on the island will be Launch Complex No. 39. Construction will start soon on this massive undertaking, which will include three launching pads for the giant Saturn 5 rocket which will ferry Apollo astronauts to the moon, hopefully in 1968.

The Saturn 5 will be as tall as a 36-story skyscraper, weigh 3,000 tons fully fueled and generate 7.5 million pounds of thrust. At a cost of about 100 million dollars for each launching, the rocket will be able to orbit a 120-ton space laboratory or send the three-man Apollo ship to the moon. The first test flight is set for 1965.

Thousands of acres will serve as a buffer zone to protect the ears and property of citizens from noise and shock waves.

To make Merritt Island more accessible, NASA is building rail lines and a four-lane causeway to bridge two rivers which separate Cape Canaveral from the Florida mainland.

The Air Force is creating islands in the Banana River on which to construct assembly and control apparatus for its Titan 3 space booster.

Titan 3, with two million pounds thrust in the first of its four stages, is scheduled to launch Syna-Soar, a manned plane-like spacecraft which could be used in military reconnaissance.

In the original Cape Canaveral area, construction is progressing on these projects:

1. Complex No. 37, which will have two launch pads for Saturn 1 and Saturn 1B, each with 1.5 million pounds thrust in the first stage. Four Saturn 1 first stage tests from Complex 34 were successful, and the initial two-stage shot—with an 18,000-pound satellite — is set from No. 37 for next October.

2. Complexes 19 and 20, formerly used in the Titan military missile test program, are being redesigned to handle the Titan 2, which will boost Gemini, and an early model of Titan 3. First orbital launching of an unmanned Gemini model from 19 is set next December. Initial orbital launching of a two-man Gemini crew is scheduled for the fall of 1964.

3. Complex 14, from which four Mercury astronauts vaulted into orbit, is being remodeled for the Atlas-Agena rockets which will launch the target satellites for later Gemini rendezvous maneuvers.

4. Pad 13, one-time Atlas military missile test stand, is being redone as an Atlas-Agena pad. The Cape then will have three Atlas-Agena facilities for a number of space explorations.

5. A second Atlas-Centaur launch pad is being built. This rocket, which experienced early test difficulties, uses high-energy liquid hydrogen fuel in its second stage, giving it more punch than Atlas-Agena. The rocket is to boost the unmanned Project Surveyor mooncraft and other scientific payloads.

6. Mercury Control Center, where America's six manned space shots were directed, has been renamed Mission Control Center and is being enlarged and refitted for Gemini.

A joint community impact committee estimates the working force will increase from its present 25,000 to 47,000 by mid-1965, leveling off at about 45,000 in 1966 when the bulk of construction will be complete.

The committee figures Cape Canaveral's annual payroll will be about 225 million dollars in 1966, compared with 158 million dollars in 1962.

Conference Slated To Survey Space Results

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency has announced plans for a news conference to survey the results of five years of research with artificial satellites — including manned spacecraft— and to discuss "future research plans and the implications to man's life in the years ahead."

The conference will be held Aug. 12-16 at Blacksburg, Va.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Time Is Of Essence When Person Bitten By Possible Rabid Animal

VAN DELLEN

A few weeks ago I was asked what I would do if my child were bitten by a dog. This must be a common question because in one year, an estimated two million Americans were bitten and 31,000 received the vaccine. Some might doubt that the problem is serious, considering that the incidence of death from rabies in the United States varies from three to 40 persons per year.

Time is of the essence when a person is bitten by an animal that possibly is rabid. It is dangerous to wait 10 days just to see what happens, unless the chance of developing rabies is practically nil. The decision should be made whether to give rabies antiserum within the first 24 hours for best results and certainly not later than 72 hours. The would is cleansed with a detergent and irrigated with 50 per cent ethyl alcohol. It should not be cauterized—too disfiguring.

THE DECISION about using antiserum depends upon the circumstances of the biting and the availability and health of the animal. There is no need for concern when the dog is a pet that was provoked into biting by teasing or frightening. The same might be said if the animal has been inoculated against rabies or lives in a protected environment where its chances of acquiring rabies from other animals are nil.

The vaccine is not necessary if the animal is available and appears to be healthy. He should be watched in quarantine. The exception occurs when the wound is severe, more so when it is located on the head or neck. Rabies antiserum offers protection and can be supplemented by the vaccine if the animal becomes ill.

THE FULL treatment is indicated at once when the animal is ill and the veterinarian suspects rabies. The same applies when the dog cannot be found and could have rabies, considering the circumstances under which the child was bitten. This is most important, especially if the skin is broken.

Rabies antiserum offers temporary protection. One injection is needed and reactions are uncommon. The rabies vaccine is more toxic and many injections are required. It is not used unless the chance of developing rabies is pronounced.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

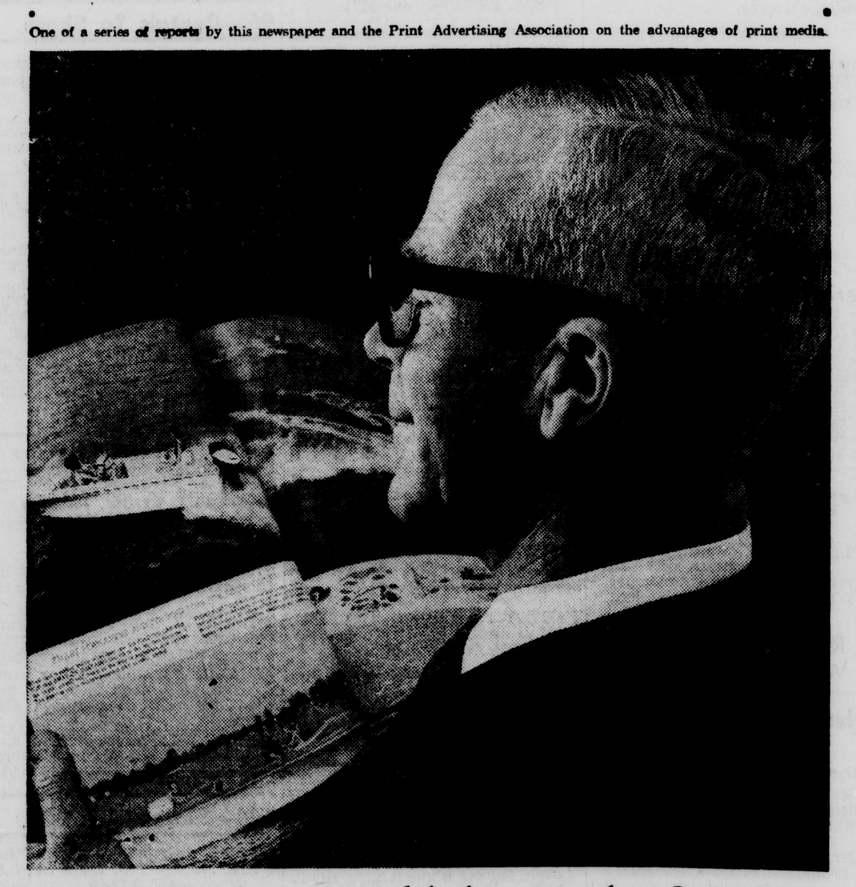
Three Youths Electrocuted

MITCHELL, Ill. (AP) — Three youths from Glen Carbon, Ill., were electrocuted on a farm near Mitchell yesterday. They were identified as Richard Slemmer, 17; William Shatz Jr., 16, and Bill Henry, 20.

State police said they and four other youths were moving irrigation pipe from one ditch to another, when they apparently raised a long section of pipe and it came in contact with power lines above.

Two other youths suffered minor burns and were treated and released.

One of a series of reports by this newspaper and the Print Advertising Association on the advantages of print media.



Don't you read before you buy?

Most people generally do.

Not only do they read; they cut out and show ads to their family and friends; they clip coupons for information and samples.

When people see an advertisement in print, they can compare designs . . . features . . . and prices of nationally known products and services. (And people do compare before they buy.)

Advertising in print is a handy thing. You can always check back; the message is still there even if your attention is distracted.

When you add it up, print advertising—the kind you read in this newspaper—makes sense. And because it measures up to the buying habits of most consumers, print makes sales.

Chicken Feed Of Future Held Important

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dr. George E. Cox believes it may ultimately be necessary for human health to keep chickens and cows well-dozed with cholesterol-lowering drugs in order to reduce the cholesterol content of eggs and milk.

He assumed people are unbreakably devoted to eggs and milk. He also was assuming excessive cholesterol in the human blood stream is largely responsible for artery-hardening and no safe and reliable drugs will be developed for people to take to minimize their cholesterol.

Cox and his associates at the University of Illinois School of Medicine, Chicago, were trying to make something of current scientific cholesterol confusion. Some scientists blame excessive human blood cholesterol on high cholesterol eating.

But other scientists think cholesterol in the human diet is relatively unimportant. They rely on the chemical cleverness of the human liver. It manufactures cholesterol quite on its own. These scientists suggest that when dietary cholesterol is high, the liver's cholesterol production is low, and when dietary cholesterol is low liver production is high.

Therefore, the amount of cholesterol in one's diet isn't governing, they reason; the blood cholesterol level will be approximately the same regardless of diet and if medical science is ever going to deal effectively with excessive blood cholesterol, it must find the real cause.

It can't be, they argued, because its capacity for manufacturing cholesterol is relatively slight at best. In human body chemistry, cholesterol is manufactured by all the tissues—it is an essential factor in metabolism. None of these many production centers shut down because dietary cholesterol is high, they reasoned.

So it must follow that cholesterol in food is an addition to an unchanging natural supply and if excessive cholesterol blood levels are to be brought down, the cholesterol has to be subtracted from the diet.

That was why Cox suggested reducing the cholesterol in milk and eggs by giving drugs to cows and chickens.

In their technical report to an organ of the American Medical Assn., Cox and his associates said the scientific evidence supporting their downgrading of the human liver as a cholesterol producer "is admittedly meager."

But, they added, "it is not nearly as meager as the evidence supporting some alternate hypotheses that are already widely accepted as proven."

The hypotheses they referred to were those which minimize the importance of dietary cholesterol in high blood cholesterol levels and eventually in artery-hardening.

Budget Hearing Set In Lagunitas

Swampland Is Giving Way To Space Age Center

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Bulldozers, piledrivers, dredges and other machines are wresting control of great areas of swampland from snake and alligator as the United States builds the huge spaceport from which astronauts will rocket toward the moon and planets.

Most of the work is concentrated on Merritt Island adjacent to Cape Canaveral, where the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is acquiring 87,000 acres on which to erect facilities of almost incredible dimension.

There also is furious construction activity on Cape Canaveral's original 15,000-acre plot as launching equipment and pads are readied for the two-man Project Gemini space flights slated to start next year and for early tests of the Apollo moonship and other space vehicles.

More than 5,000 construction workers are on the job. In 12 months there will be about 9,000. In the next three years, 1.7 billion dollars will be spent on building work.

The space agency is paying an estimated 55 million dollars for the land on Merritt Island and on a thin strip offshore territory north of the present cape boundaries. Merritt Island lies west and northwest of the Cape.

About 400 homeowners are being displaced by the acquisition, most of which is swamp, woodland and orange groves.

The dominating feature on the island will be Launch Complex No. 39. Construction will start soon on this massive undertaking, which will include three launching pads for the giant Saturn 5 rocket which will ferry Apollo astronauts to the moon, hopefully in 1968.

The Saturn 5 will be as tall as a 36-story skyscraper, weigh 3,000 tons fully fueled and generate 7.5 million pounds of thrust. At a cost of about 100 million dollars for each launching, the rocket will be able to orbit a 120-ton space laboratory or send the three-man Apollo ship to the moon. The first test flight is set for 1965.

Thousands of acres will serve as a buffer zone to protect the ears and property of citizens from noise and shock waves.

To make Merritt Island more accessible, NASA is building rail lines and a four-lane causeway to bridge two rivers which separate Cape Canaveral from the Florida mainland.

The Air Force is creating islands in the Banana River on which to construct assembly and control apparatus for its Titan 3 space booster.

Titan 3, with two million pounds thrust in the first of its four stages, is scheduled to launch Syna-Soar, a manned plane-like spacecraft which could be used in military reconnaissance.

In the original Cape Canaveral area, construction is progressing on these projects:

1. Complex No. 37, which will have two launch pads for Saturn 1 and Saturn 1B, each with 1.5 million pounds thrust in the first stage. Four Saturn 1 first stage tests from Complex 34 were successful, and the initial two-stage shot—with an 18,000-pound satellite — is set from No. 37 for next October.

2. Complexes 19 and 20, formerly used in the Titan military missile test program, are being redesigned to handle the Titan 2, which will boost Gemini, and an early model of Titan 3. First orbital launching of an unmanned Gemini model from 19 is set next December. Initial orbital launching of a two-man Gemini crew is scheduled for the fall of 1964.

3. Complex 14, from which four Mercury astronauts vaulted into orbit, is being remodeled for the Atlas-Agena rockets which will launch the target satellites for later Gemini rendezvous maneuvers.

4. Pad 13, one-time Atlas military missile test stand, is being redone as an Atlas-Agena pad. The Cape then will have three Atlas-Agena facilities for a number of space explorations.

5. A second Atlas-Centaur launch pad is being built. This rocket, which experienced early test difficulties, uses high-energy liquid hydrogen fuel in its second stage, giving it more punch than Atlas-Agena. The rocket is to boost the unmanned Project Surveyor mooncraft and other scientific payloads.

6. Mercury Control Center, where America's six manned space shots were directed, has been renamed Mission Control Center and is being enlarged and refitted for Gemini.

A joint community impact committee estimates the working force will increase from its present 25,000 to 47,000 by mid-1965, leveling off at about 45,000 in 1966 when the bulk of construction will be complete.

The committee figures Cape Canaveral's annual payroll will be about 225 million dollars in 1966, compared with 158 million dollars in 1962.

Seymour Submits Resignation From Sanitary Board

After moving out of the county about four months ago, John Phil Seymour has submitted his resignation as a director of the Corte Madera Sanitary District July 13, the district office announced today.

The resignation will be acted on by the district board at 7:30 p.m. today in district headquarters, 500 Tamalpais Drive. Seymour last was reported living in Waverly, R.I.

Bids for paving in the area of the pumping station on Paradise Drive will be reviewed. The board will discuss a report that five homes along the Greenbrae Boardwalk have not yet made connections to the sewer system.

Conference Slated To Survey Space Results

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency has announced plans for a news conference to survey the results of five years of research with artificial satellites — including manned spacecraft— and to discuss "future research plans and the implications to man's life in the years ahead."

The conference will be held Aug. 12-16 at Blacksburg, Va.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Time Is Of Essence When Person Bitten By Possible Rabid Animal

VAN DELLEN

A few weeks ago I was asked what I would do if my child were bitten by a dog. This must be a common question because in one year, an estimated two million Americans were bitten and 31,000 received the vaccine. Some might doubt that the problem is serious, considering that the incidence of death from rabies in the United States varies from three to 40 persons per year.

Time is of the essence when a person is bitten by an animal that possibly is rabid. It is dangerous to wait 10 days just to see what happens, unless the chance of developing rabies is practically nil. The decision should be made whether to give rabies antiserum within the first 24 hours for best results and certainly not later than 72 hours. The would is cleansed with a detergent and irrigated with 50 per cent ethyl alcohol. It should not be cauterized—too disfiguring.

THE DECISION about using antiserum depends upon the circumstances of the biting and the availability and health of the animal. There is no need for concern when the dog is a pet that was provoked into biting by teasing or frightening. The same might be said if the animal has been inoculated against rabies or lives in a protected environment where its chances of acquiring rabies from other animals are nil.

The vaccine is not necessary if the animal is available and appears to be healthy. He should be watched in quarantine. The exception occurs when the wound is severe, more so when it is located on the head or neck. Rabies antiserum offers protection and can be supplemented by the vaccine if the animal becomes ill.

THE FULL treatment is indicated at once when the animal is ill and the veterinarian suspects rabies. The same applies when the dog cannot be found and could have rabies, considering the circumstances under which the child was bitten. This is most important, especially if the skin is broken.

Rabies antiserum offers temporary protection. One injection is needed and reactions are uncommon. The rabies vaccine is more toxic and many injections are required. It is not used unless the chance of developing rabies is pronounced.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

Three Youths Electrocuted

MITCHELL, Ill. (AP) — Three youths from Glen Carbon, Ill., were electrocuted on a farm near Mitchell yesterday. They were identified as Richard Slemmer, 17; William Shatz Jr., 16, and Bill Henry, 20.

State police said they and four other youths were moving irrigation pipe from one ditch to another, when they apparently raised a long section of pipe and it came in contact with power lines above.

Two other youths suffered minor burns and were treated and released.

One of a series of reports by this newspaper and the Print Advertising Association on the advantages of print media.

Don't you read before you buy?

Most people generally do.

Not only do they read; they cut out and show ads to their family and friends; they clip coupons for information and samples.

When people see an advertisement in print, they can compare designs . . . features . . . and prices of nationally known products and services. (And people do compare before they buy.)

Advertising in print is a handy thing. You can always check back; the message is still there even if your attention is distracted.

When you add it up, print advertising—the kind you read in this newspaper—makes sense. And because it measures up to the buying habits of most consumers, print makes sales.

MARIN BUSINESS And INDUSTRY

By HARRY CRAFT

Lumber, Building Materials Sales Made A Big Jump In First Quarter

With home construction in the county well ahead of last year, it's no surprise that figures recently released by the State Board of Equalization show the biggest percentage jump for the first quarter over January, February and March, 1962, as occurring in lumber and building materials. The gain was 47.51 per cent.

Gift, art goods and novelties; boats and supplies; store and school supplies and office equipment — and men's apparel were next four highest. Biggest drop (28.08 per cent) was in photographic equipment and musical instruments. Total retail sales reflected a 13.06 per cent increase.

A GOOD example of what is happening is that of L. C. Smith Building Supplies in San Rafael which has declared its intention to put up its own building near the Marin Builders Exchange.

This three-in-one business (building hardware, floor coverings and plywood) has trebled its gross sales in the last three years. The annual figure is now more than $1,000,000.

C AND T MEATS at 540 Irwin Street, San Rafael hopes to get its own grocery department opened at this location during the week to fill the space left by Buy-Low Foods that moved out six weeks ago. Charles Thompson and Bert Chandler will have a full line of foods, including wines and beers. They'll bring in another man to run it.

SAN RAFAEL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE has published a new directory of the various city and county officials, civic and luncheon clubs, social service, health and veterans' organizations.

IN SPITE of the fact that freezers and other basic equipment will be lavishly trimmed in gold oxide, Michael Gary refuses to apply the word "super" to his new market in Loch Lomond, due to open about the middle of next month. It will be known simply as "Gary's Loch Lomond Market." The superlative is overdone, he says. A market's a market and not a Hollywood production (except the grand opening, of course).

DRAPER COMPANIES appointments: R. M. Westly, former president of Lucky Lager Brewing Co., has jointed the real estate brokerage division . . . David F. P. Hess, previously a market research analyst for Safeway Stores, has joined the advertising and promotion division.

SOME misunderstanding on the Cove project on Tiburon Highway mentioned last week in this column has arisen. It's not a development that sells homes—but a place where deluxe apartments will be rented.

MOTORCRAFT. Prices for 1964 models are expected to be lifted only moderately . . . Chrysler Motors claims its engineers have made 154 improvements in the new Imperial to attain soundless riding. No hiss, no miss, no ear roars. . . . There'll be a new Willys (Kaiser) Jeep dealer in Marin soon.

Larkspur Woman Leaves Phone Firm After 38 Years

A Larkspur woman has retired from Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. after more than 38 years of Bell system service.

Mrs. Mabel O'Connell began her career as a comptometer operator in the San Francisco accounting department in 1924. The following year she became a telephone operator in Corte Madera and remained there for 17 years. Following World War, II Mrs. O'Connell was promoted to supervising operator in San Rafael, the post from which she retired.

Mrs. O'Connell has recently taken up golf to keep pace with her golfer husband, Noel, a retired government employee. The O'Connells reside at 12 Acacia Avenue.

Landscape Architect Wins Three Awards

Kimio Kimura of 9 Elena Circle, Terra Linda, a landscape architect, won three awards totaling $980 for his garden displays at the San Mateo Fiesta last weekend.

Kimura won fisrt place for his "Water Garden," and first place for his "Japanese Maple Tree" display. He also won third place for his "Design for Living" display.

Only $346,681,016 in United States Notes can be outstanding at any one time.

Louis Milani Cab Sale Approved By Council

The San Rafael City Council last night approved transfer of the Yellow Cab Co.'s taxicab license at 703A Third Street from Louis Milani to Robert Jennings of San Mateo.

Jennings, a rancher and former owner of the Yellow Cab Co. in Redwood City, is expected to take over the business immediately.

The San Rafael taxicab company was founded in 1925 by the late Joseph Milani, father of the present owner, with one cab. The firm now maintains 11 taxis.

The elder Milani died June 27. His widow has worked as a dispatcher for the company since it was started.

Louis Milani, who purchased the business from his father 15 years ago, said he has no plans at the moment except to take a long vacation. He lives at 52 Ridgewood Drive, San Rafael.

The sale was negotiated by Harry Abras of Redmond Realty.

Demo Club To Form Rights Platform

A civil rights platform is to be formulated by the Mill Valley Democratic Club's issues group at a meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at the home of Keith Kaulum, 401 Marion Avenue.

On completion, the platform is to be presented to the club's board of directors for approval and, in September, recommended to the Marin County Council of Democratic Clubs, according to Mrs. Joan Sestak, chairman.

There were 22,220,000 veterans in the United States at the end of January, 1963.

MARIN BUSINESS And INDUSTRY

By HARRY CRAFT

Lumber, Building Materials Sales Made A Big Jump In First Quarter

With home construction in the county well ahead of last year, it's no surprise that figures recently released by the State Board of Equalization show the biggest percentage jump for the first quarter over January, February and March, 1962, as occurring in lumber and building materials. The gain was 47.51 per cent.

Gift, art goods and novelties; boats and supplies; store and school supplies and office equipment — and men's apparel were next four highest. Biggest drop (28.08 per cent) was in photographic equipment and musical instruments. Total retail sales reflected a 13.06 per cent increase.

A GOOD example of what is happening is that of L. C. Smith Building Supplies in San Rafael which has declared its intention to put up its own building near the Marin Builders Exchange.

This three-in-one business (building hardware, floor coverings and plywood) has trebled its gross sales in the last three years. The annual figure is now more than $1,000,000.

C AND T MEATS at 540 Irwin Street, San Rafael hopes to get its own grocery department opened at this location during the week to fill the space left by Buy-Low Foods that moved out six weeks ago. Charles Thompson and Bert Chandler will have a full line of foods, including wines and beers. They'll bring in another man to run it.

SAN RAFAEL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE has published a new directory of the various city and county officials, civic and luncheon clubs, social service, health and veterans' organizations.

IN SPITE of the fact that freezers and other basic equipment will be lavishly trimmed in gold oxide, Michael Gary refuses to apply the word "super" to his new market in Loch Lomond, due to open about the middle of next month. It will be known simply as "Gary's Loch Lomond Market." The superlative is overdone, he says. A market's a market and not a Hollywood production (except the grand opening, of course).

DRAPER COMPANIES appointments: R. M. Westly, former president of Lucky Lager Brewing Co., has jointed the real estate brokerage division . . . David F. P. Hess, previously a market research analyst for Safeway Stores, has joined the advertising and promotion division.

SOME misunderstanding on the Cove project on Tiburon Highway mentioned last week in this column has arisen. It's not a development that sells homes—but a place where deluxe apartments will be rented.

MOTORCRAFT. Prices for 1964 models are expected to be lifted only moderately . . . Crhysler Motors claims its engineers have made 154 improvements in the new Imperial to attain soundless riding. No hiss, no miss, no ear roars. . . . There'll be a new Willys (Kaiser) Jeep dealer in Marin soon.

Larkspur Woman Leaves Phone Firm After 38 Years

A Larkspur woman has retired from Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. after more than 38 years of Bell system service.

Mrs. Mabel O'Connell began her career as a comptometer operator in the San Francisco accounting department in 1924. The following year she became a telephone operator in Corte Madera and remained there for 17 years. Following World War, II Mrs. O'Connell was promoted to supervising operator in San Rafael, the post from which she retired.

Mrs. O'Connell has recently taken up golf to keep pace with her golfer husband, Noel, a retired government employee. The O'Connells reside at 12 Acacia Avenue.

Landscape Architect Wins Three Awards

Kimio Kimura of 9 Elena Circle, Terra Linda, a landscape architect, won three awards totaling $980 for his garden displays at the San Mateo Fiesta last weekend.

Kimura won fisrt place for his "Water Garden," and first place for his "Japanese Maple Tree" display. He also won third place for his "Design for Living" display.

Only $346,681,016 in United States Notes can be outstanding at any one time.

Louis Milani Cab Sale Approved By Council

The San Rafael City Council last night approved transfer of the Yellow Cab Co.'s taxicab license at 703A Third Street from Louis Milani to Robert Jennings of San Mateo.

Jennings, a rancher and former owner of the Yellow Cab Co. in Redwood City, is expected to take over the business immediately.

The San Rafael taxicab company was founded in 1925 by the late Joseph Milani, father of the present owner, with one cab. The firm now maintains 11 taxis.

The elder Milani died June 27. His widow has worked as a dispatcher for the company since it was started.

Louis Milani, who purchased the business from his father 15 years ago, said he has no plans at the moment except to take a long vacation. He lives at 52 Ridgewood Drive, San Rafael.

The sale was negotiated by Harry Abras of Redmond Realty.

Demo Club To Form Rights Platform

A civil rights platform is to be formulated by the Mill Valley Democratic Club's issues group at a meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at the home of Keith Kaulum, 401 Marion Avenue.

On completion, the platform is to be presented to the club's board of directors for approval and, in September, recommended to the Marin County Council of Democratic Clubs, according to Mrs. Joan Sestak, chairman.

There were 22,220,000 veterans in the United States at the end of January, 1963.
